State's Medical Costs Going Up

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

State costs for medical assistance programs will increase by at least $6 million during the coming biennium even without any addition in services, Public Welfare Director Harold Rogers told the Legislature's Budget Committee Friday.

Participation in the medicaid program has grown "beyond expectations," Rogers said.

Additional staffing for the department could assist in finding ways to reduce future medical costs, the director suggested.

Rogers said participation in the state's aid-to-dependent-children program and aid to the disabled is also rapidly increasing.

Asking Big Increase

The department is seeking $44,527,409 in general fund money for fiscal 1969-71, compared to estimated expenditures of $27,318,413 for fiscal 1967-69.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann's budget recommendations for the agency include $34,981,937 in general fund money.

The department's total budget request of $135,559,664 includes $92.3 million in federal funds. Tiemann's recommendations would reduce the total to $105.7 million.

'Reverse Of Intent'

ADC, Rogers told the committee, "appears to be accomplishing the reverse of its intent," which he described as attempting to strengthen family life for the needy.

Funds are being requested to counteract this trend through such proposals as a work incentive program, emphasizing the need for birth control information, establishing regional offices, and searching for new and innovative procedures to improve the program.

The latter effort would be undertaken with a federal demonstration grant — which will be sought if the Legislature approves $100,000 in state matching funds for the coming biennium.

Emphasis on Staff

Rogers placed primary emphasis on the need for additional and improved staff assistance.

Particularly, he noted, he would like to see case workers freed from clerical work so they can be of more aid to welfare recipients.

"We want to step in and help bail them out before they go under," Rogers said.

In the ADC program, "we want to try to prevent the wage-earner from leaving the home," perhaps through such alternative methods as financial assistance or employment training.

However, he pointed out, only about 4% of the 37,135 assistance recipients are capable of work, and a number of those have educational deficiencies which make them somewhat unemployable. Most recipients are children, the aged, the blind or the disabled.

An additional 20,000 Nebraskans receive medical assistance.

Case Load Doubled

As an example of the growth in the ADC program, Rogers said the case load in Douglas County doubled in 2½ years time. Federal community action programs have informed more people of their eligibility for the assistance, he said.

"Where is the pyramiding ever going to stop?" Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine asked.

Budget Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings commended Rogers for "the best discussion on welfare we've had in my 75 years on the Budget Committee."

It only seems that long to him: this is Marvel's fifth consecutive regular session as budget chairman.

The welfare hearing will continue Monday at 2 p.m.

Roads Generally Improved

. . . SOME NORTHEAST HIGHWAYS STILL CLOSED

Road conditions across the state were generally improved Friday, but several highways in northeastern Nebraska remained closed because of snow drifts, according to the State Department of Roads.

Blocked highways included Neb. 84 east and west of Hartington, Neb. 57 north of Laurel, Neb. 15 between Laurel and Neb. 12 and Neb. 59 east of Creighton.

There was some one-way traffic in that section of the state, but the highway department said snowplows would remain at work until all roads are open to two-way travel.

Interstate 80 was reported to be near normal all across the state.

Custer Public Power District officials estimated Friday that about 300 rural customers are still without electrical power, and Gov. Norbert T. Tieman was awaiting more information before making a decision to declare those counties a disaster area.

For many of the customers Friday marked the third day without service and officials said it may be late Sunday before crews can complete repairs.

Dominick Sees Navy's Attempt

. . . TO CRUCIFY BUCHER

Washington (AP) — Sen. Peter H. Dominick R-Colo., charged Friday that the Navy is trying to blame Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher for the Pueblo affair rather than the officials who denied him the means to destroy the spy ship's secret equipment.

Dominick, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in an interview that top Pentagon officials did not tell the committee in briefings last year that Bucher had requested such a destruct system.

It Was Requested

Bucher testified at a naval court of inquiry in Coronado, Calif. this week that he requested the destruct system two or three times and that it was rejected because of "money and time."

"At no time were we informed that such a request had been made or that it had been denied," Dominick said.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted at least two Senate committees will want to look into the Pueblo affair.

Two Probes Seen

Mansfield told reporters he thinks the Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is a member, and the Armed Services Committee will want to inquire into all aspects of the Pueblo's capture by North Korea.

But Mansfield said he does not expect any action until after the naval court of inquiry completes its hearing and announces its findings.

Testimony given last Feb. 1 during the Armed Services Committee's annual hearing on the nation's military posture shows that Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., asked Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, what could be done to prevent future Pueblos.

Hard Look Needed

"It seems to me that we must take a very hard look at our destruct mechanism, to take a look at other things that we can do to disable a vessel, so that it can't be moved as easily, if possible," Wheeler said.

Dominick noted that the court of inquiry has told Bucher he may be court-martialed for surrendering his ship to the enemy.

But he said that former secretary of defense Robert S. McNamara told the committee at the Feb. 1 hearing "his first responsibility was not to attack the harassing vessels but to destroy his equipment."

Hard To Scuttle

McNamara testified, "the ship, as I understand it, could not have been physically scuttled within the kind of limited time available to it — it is a difficult process to scuttle this kind of a ship."

And Wheeler noted that destruction of the equipment, as well as calls for help, got off to a delayed start because "Cmdr. Bucher was of the opinion this was a normal type of harassment. It has happened all over the world before."

The officials made clear that once Bucher realized what was happening his only recourse was to destroy as many documents as possible.

"It's interesting testimony," Dominick said, "because the implication has been given by the court that he should have fought his way out. McNamara showed clearly that he had orders not to do it."

Bucher Relates Secret Aspects Of Pueblo Case

Coronado, Calif. (AP) — The captain of the Pueblo, after four days of sometimes anguished public testimony, told a court of inquiry behind closed doors Friday about further aspects of its capture and the captivity of its crew.

Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher was excused at mid-afternoon from further appearances, subject to recall.

A Navy information officer, Capt. Vincent Thomas, said the unclassified information discussed at the closed session included testimony by Bucher that North Koreans discovered "hundreds of signals sent home (by the crew) to tell the United States their spying confessions were phony.

"After publication of the now famous photo in a national magazine (in which the Pueblo crewmen gave a sign of vulgar contempt) the North Koreans went back and reviewed all of their propaganda materials," said Thomas.

He said Bucher testified that about this time — last Dec. 12 — almost the entire crew received severe beatings.

U.S. Deserter Hijacks Plane

Miami (AP) — A Navy deserter who said he didn't want to kill in Vietnam hijacked a National Airlanes jet to Cuba Friday, forcing along 46 other persons.

National stewardess Kim Tatum said four minutes after the plane departed Key West for Miami the hijacker "grabbed me around the neck and put a knife to my neck with the other hand" and demanded the flight be diverted to Cuba.

The man jammed himself and Miss Tatum into a rear corner of the passenger compartment and had the hostesses relay his orders to the pilot in the cockpit.

Stewardess Sue Morrill said the hijacker told her he was a 19-year-old American who had deserted from the Navy at San Diego, Calif.

Miss Morrill said he told her: " 'I don't want to kill. I don't want to go to Vietnam.' "

The 22-year-old stewardess said the hijacker was "fidgety" and appeared reluctant to walk down the landing steps once they arrived at Havana's Jose Marti Airport.

He hesitated when he saw the uniformed Cuban soldiers waiting for him at the bottom of the stairs, she said. "He didn't want to leave. He almost had tears in his eyes. It was the type of deal where he didn't know what he wanted to do."

8 Men, 4 Women On Sirhan Jury

Los Angeles (AP) — A surprise agreement between prosecution and defense yielded a jury of eight men and four women Friday to try Sirhan Bishara Sirhan on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

It happened about a week sooner than some attorneys in the case had expected, when the defense said it would accept the panel and the prosecution, after considering it over the noon hour, agreed.

Selection of perhaps half a dozen alternate jurors is needed before testimony can begin. The trial is expected to last at least three months.

Agreements on a jury came on the last day of the third week of the trial of the slender, 24-year-old Jordanian, accused of shooting Kennedy last June 5 after the New York senator had won the California Democratic presidential election.

The defense twice during the day accepted a tentative jury and the prosecution accepted the second time.

Interest Ceiling On FHA, VA Guaranteed Loans Increased

Washington (UPI) — The government Friday raised the ceiling on interest rates for mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration from 6¾% to a record 7½%.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney announced the new ceiling for FHA loans and VA Administrator William J. Driver announced similar action for VA loans.

Romney said that because inflation had pushed other interest rates past 7%, little money was flowing to back mortgages at the old rate of 6¾%.

"Without private mortgage money — and it is being withheld from federal programs because of the low yield — we cannot function adequately," Romney said.

'Interim Measure'

"We view this increase as an interim, emergency measure to permit buyers who are being locked out of the mortgage market to purchase homes," he said.

He emphasized that he hoped to see the rates come down.

Government and home building spokesmen said the higher ceiling offered only temporary relief for home buyers and their search for mortgage money. They said that reducing inflation was the only real hope for eventually lowering home mortgage costs.

Insurance Fee Also

The new ceiling means that home buyers with FHA loans will pay an effective rate of 8% interest since there is a continuing insurance fee of 0.5% in addition to the basic interest. There is no such fee on VA loans.

The new ceiling means that FHA and VA will guarantee home loans for qualified buyers bearing interest as high as 7½%.

But in addition to the interest, lenders have been collecting flat one-time premiums in the form of discounts — or "points" — one point being one per cent of the amount of the loan. Regulations permit home buyers who are getting FHA or VA loans to pay no more than one point, with the seller of the property having to pay as many additional points as the lender can get.

'Points' May Drop

Home building industry officials predicted that the points charged a seller in FHA-VA transactions probably would drop because of the higher ceiling.

Romney noted that "home owners who are selling their homes are finding their equities substantially reduced or wiped out" by having to pay so many "points" to make a sale.

Romney's action had no effect on the 4.6 million outstanding mortgages insured by the FHA. They will continue at the interest rate specified at the time the mortgage was written.

For about a year, would-be home buyers have found that banks were increasingly reluctant to make FHA or VA guarantee loans because of the relatively low interest such loans paid.

County 'Interested' In Hospital For Nursing Home If Costs Down

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners Friday told city officials that the county is interested in possibly leasing the old Lincoln General Hospital for a nursing home if remodeling costs didn't exceed about $200,000.

Commissioner William Grossman explained that if the City of Lincoln is willing to grant exceptions to its building code and allow a sprinkler system instead of requiring replacement of partitions, then reports show the necessary remodeling to comply with minimum fire requirements would cost between $180,000 and $200,000.

City Building Inspector Charles Seale said that the city building code was not a problem but that the estimate of $180,000 for remodeling to include a sprinkler system did not include use of the kitchen in the old hospital.

Officials agreed that if the hospital were to be utilized as a nursing home then some sort of arrangement for food service would have to be worked out.

Seale also noted that in addition to the cost of remodeling to meet minimum standards, additional parking would be needed.

Grossman said that parking and help would have to be considered, but indicated that those matters could be worked out if an agreement could be reached with the city to use the building.

Commissioner Ralph Harlan stated that if the county were to build additional stories onto the City-County Convalescent Hospital, which has been suggested as an alternative for nursing home space, parking would still be a problem.

The city did not give any indication as to how long a lease on the building it would be willing to grant if such an agreement could be made, but Harlan said that if the county were going to invest money in remodeling the former hospital it would have to be for a period of years.

The possible nursing home use of the former hospital has been under consideration for about a year as a partial solution to the scarcity of nursing home space and rising costs for care of county patients in private nursing homes.

Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert at that time stated that such a home could be operated for less money than the cost to the taxpayer for nursing home care for public welfare recipients in privately-owned homes.

It's 66 Below In Montana

By United Press International

Mrs. Laura Mauland, who lives in the ranch country between Lewiston and Havre, Mont., looked at her thermometer Friday — and looked again.

It registered 66 degrees below zero—the bottom of the scale.

Residents of Havre shrugged off an official morning low of 52 below — a Jan. 24 record — and went on about business as usual. Havre's all-time low is 57 below.

Freedom Restricted Again In Franco's Spain

(C) New York Times News Service

Madrid — The Spanish government restored the full press censorship that it lifted three years ago. In an effort to curb signs of opposition, the Franco regime also gave the police almost unlimited power to make arrests, search premises and hold suspects for questioning. (More on Page 2.)

Excluding U.S. Firms Suggested

Brussels — France and Germany reportedly want to exclude American subsidiaries from newly proposed Common Market directives that would facilitate cross-country mergers. It is almost certain that the United States would retaliate if the European Community adopted discriminatory policies.

Ky Says Peace Is Possible

Paris — South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, who arrived from Saigon, said that "peace can be restored as soon as the Communists abandon their scheme of expansion by force." (More on Page 2.)

Jarring Returning To New York

United Nations, N.Y. — Ambassador Gunnar V. Jarring, the U.N. peace representative in the Middle East, will return to New York Monday to confer with Secretary General Thant and the ambassadors of the Big Four powers.

Dubcek Calls For Restraint

Prague — Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak Communist Party leader, warned his countrymen "not to permit spontaneous and uncontrollable" outbursts at the funeral of Jan Palach, who burned himself to death to protest the Soviet occupation. (More on Page 2.)

U.N. Seeks Drug Controls

Geneva — The U.N. Narcotics Commission agreed to seek strict governmental controls on the use of amphetamine-type stimulatns. Sweden, which bans the sale of these stimulants, requested acton because it cannot stop drug smuggling from West Germany.

Nixon To Review Pacific Lines

Washington — President Nixon blocked former President Johnson's award of Pacific airline routes and said he would review the matter. (More on Page 2.)

Interest Ceiling Raised

Washington — The Nixon administration raised the interest rate ceiling on government-backed mortgages from 6¾ to 7½%, bringing the ceiling in line with, and perhaps a little over, the going market rates. (More on Page 1.)

Hickel Welcomed To Cabinet

Washington — Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, whose confirmation as secretary of the interior was delayed in the Senate, got a belated but warm welcome to the Cabinet from President Nixon. (More on Page 2.)

Updated Ethical Code Ready

Chicago — The chairman of a committee that has been revamping the legal profession's 61-year-old canons of ethics introduced an updated code of professional responsibility.

Naval Yards May Come Free

Washington — Vice President Agnew said the Nixon administration was planning legislation to give New York the Brooklyn Navy Yard without charge.

Nixon Not For 'Confirmation For Confirmation's Sake'

World News

Washington (UPI) — "We are not interested in confirmation for confirmation's sake," said President Nixon with a smile Friday as he welcomed Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska into his Cabinet as interior secretary.

Hickel, who underwent five days of questioning by the Senate Interior Committee before the Senate approved his nomination by a 73-16 vote after two days of debate, was sworn in by Chief Justice Earl Warren in the White House East Room.

It was Hickel's comment once that he was not interested in "conservation for conservation's sake" that contributed to making him the most controvesial of Nixon's Cabinet choices and delayed his confirmation until Thursday. The other 11 Cabinet members took their oaths of office Wednesday.

Another disputed appointee, David Packard, was sworn in by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird at the Pentagon as deputy defense secretary.

Packard promised to "do the very best I can to build and maintain the kind of military establishment this country has a right to expect."

The Senate confirmed Packard Thursday by a 82-1 vote over objections by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., that Packard had not sold stock in his electronics firm outright.

Packard, a defense contractor, chose to place his $300 million worth of shares in Hewlett-Packard Corp. in a trust with income and gains in value going to charity. Gore complained this did not eliminate the possiblity of conflict of interest.

Senate confirmation of Charls E. Walker as Treasury undersecretary without debate was termed "outrageous" Friday by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee.

Patman said Walker was not fit for the job because, as former executive vice president of the American Bankers Association, "Walker's interest was not the public interest but the lobbying interest" for the commercial banking industry.

Economic Policy Panel

The White House also announced that Nixon had created a Cabinet committee on economic policy to help plan long-range economic policies while the President's closet advisers help with immediate economic issues.

Press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the committee would be headed by Nixon and would include Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, Labor Secretary George P. Schultz, Budget Director Robert P. Mayo; Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and Arthur Burns, Nixon's counseor.

The White House announced two Agriculture Department appointments — William E. Galbraith, a Beemer, Neb., livestock feeder, as deputy administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and David A. Hamil, Denver, Colo., as administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration (REA), the same job he htld during the Eisenhower administration.

Nixon Rescinds Expansion Of Trans-Pacific Flights

Washington (AP) — President Nixon rescinded Friday trans-Pacific air route awards of his predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, which were to have gone into effect Feb. 17.

The decisions of last Dec. 19 involved air routes over half the world, and would have given the successful airline applicants new authority of virtually unlimited potential value.

Those major airlines denied new authority had protested that thereby they were being frozen out of what was really the last remaining expanded air transport market left to the industry.

No Reason Given

The President gave no reason for his sudden action, which also indirectly involved a domestic issue—that of service between Hawaii and the mainland.

In a letter to the Civil Aeronautics Board chairman, Nixon said he had reviewed action taken by the board and President Johnson and "I have come to the conclusion that it is both appropriate and necessary for me to rtscind the prior presidential action taken and recall the matter for my further review and decision."

No Comment

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had no comment beyond the bare announcement when asked whether Nixon's action indicated a belief there might be something to what a reporter called printed charges that some CAB route allocations were granted unfairly to friends and former associates of Johnson.

Two of the major disputed route awards went to Continental Airlines and Braniff Airways, both of which employ persons formerly a part of the Johnson administration. Neither Continental nor Braniff had been recommended for routes in the earlier decision of the CAB examiner.

Mrs. King Touches Heart Of India

© New York Times Service

New Delhi — Tears welled up in the eyes of the Indian president, the prime minister and the vice president, as well as many others in the large and distinguished audience as Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. sang "We Shall Overcome."

The scene was at a ceremony Friday at which President Zakir Husain presented Mrs. King with the 100,000-rupee ($13,000) Jawaharlal Nehru Award for International Understanding. The award was for 1966 but was conferred posthumously on the American civil rights leader, who was assassinated last year.

Mrs. King accepted the award, saying it was "a tribute to a well-fought fight to progress."

"In a profound way Martin Luther King continues the struggle for peace and understanding between men and nations more powerfully in death then in life," she said. "For his spirit has been loosed upon a violent and loveless world . . . We see stirrings of the nonviolent spirit in Latin America, in the south of Italy and among the Mexican population of California."

Mrs. King received a standing ovation at the end of her 30-minute speech.

The long cheering had hardly ended, when a group of university students from the other end of the vast ceremony hall struck up the civil rights song on guitars.

Mrs. King joined in, instantly transforming the cold formality of the gathering into one of deep feeling.

Vice President V. V. Giri read the award citation, which said the honor had been conferred on King posthumously as "a small token of our gratitude to a man who, like Mahatma Gandhi, laid down his life to show mankind a sane way to the promised land of justice and equality."

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said the award was the "highest tribute our nation can bestow on work for understanding and brotherhood among men."

Helicopter Loss Totals 999

Saigon (AP) — The toll of U.S. helicopters shot down by enemy gunners reached 999 for eight years of war Saturday, with the disclosure that two more had been downed, killing 15 Americans.

The U.S. Command said a Marine regimental commander and an artillery officer were among eight killed in a crash Jan. 15 about 30 miles south of Da Nang.

Four crewmen and three wounded soldiers were killed Thursday when their medical evacuation helicopter was hit by enemy fire and crashed 23 miles north of Pleiku in the central highlands.

Red Crosses Visible

The U.S. Command said the evacuation helicopter, plainly marked with red crosses, was hit while leaving a battle zone. The crew included two pilots and two medics.

The helicopter that crashed last week was an Army craft being used as a command ship by Col. Michael M. Spark, 41, commander of the 3rd Marine Regiment, 3rd Marine Division.

Spark, a New York City native whose family lives in Alexandria, Va., was killed in the crash along with Lt. Col. Ermil Lee Whisman, 40, Wichita Falls, Tex., and Sgt. Maj. Ted McClintock, 49, Bothwell, Wash. The names of the others, a radioman and four crewmen were not announced.

Observing Battle

Marine spokesmen said Spark was airborne to "observe what was going on" in a battle involving his unit in jungle country. The helicopter was hit by small-arms fire.

The estimated $578.5 million worth of helicopters lost represents only a small portion of the approximately $5 billion in total aircraft losses suffered by the United States in the Vietnam war.

In the main action afield, troops of the U.S. 11th Light Infantry Brigade finally swept through a village 65 miles south of Da Nang after a five-day battle only to find that the enemy apparently had eluded their cordon.

They had expected to find 100 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in the fortified village. Instead they found the bodies of 36 enemy troops killed by artillery fire and air attacks.

Ky Says Communists Must Abandon Force

© New York Times Service

Paris — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said Friday on his arrival from Saigon that peace can be restored in Vietnam "as soon as the Communists abandon their scheme of expansion by force."

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the new chief United States negotiator at the Paris talks, welcomed Ky at Orly airport and called at his residence to brief him on Saturday's first plenary meeting of the broadened talks.

The major problems to be tackled by the negotiators include a reduction in the level of fighting, troop withdrawals, prisoner exchanges, a cease-fire, the status of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam and of South Vietnam's borders with Laos and Cambodia, and the foture political setup of South Vietnam.

Happy With Progress

Ky said he was happy with the progress achieved lately in the Paris talks, and promised that the Saigon government would show goodwill in the coming negotiations.

He added: "The Vietnamese people fervently hope for peace, but they are absolutely opposed to Communist domination."

The 38-year-old vice president was accompanied by his 26-year-old wife, Mai.

Czechoslovaks Pay Tribute To Palach

Prague (AP) — By the tens of thousands Czechoslovaks, some weeping, some wailing, paid final tribute Friday night to Jan Palach. On the eve of his funeral, government leaders loosed a barrage of warnings that disorders could plunge the nation into chaos.

Even students in Italy and Austria staged demonstrations of sympathy with Czechoslovak students and the ideals of Palach, the 21-year-old student who committed suicide by fire to protest conditions brought about by Soviet occupation.

Student leaders here predicted a turnout of 400,000 students for Saturday's funeral. They informed the interior ministry they could not guarantee there would be no incidents, Radio Prague said.

Both the people and the leadership were worried that a great surge of emotion could explode into a violent demonstration. Government statements said "irresponsible actions would not be tolerated."

In a letter from his sickbed Communist Party chief Alexander Dubcek said, "Do not permit spontaneous and uncontrollable actions" that could lead to "unforseeable consequences."

The national government broadcast directives to security forces telling them to take "concrete steps to ensure peace and order."

A new attempted fire suicide and the suicide of a girl by gas were reported. A letter, said to be her suicide note, said she had "no other choice" but did not have the courage to burn herself.

Public security forces were out in full strength.

Student leaders passed the word "sorrow is silent" and said they feared provocations might touch off demonstrations that would bring back Soviet tanks.

As darkness fell Friday, a line of people wound for a half-mile through the Old Town of Prague to view the oak coffin in the courtyard of Charles University's main building.

State Of Emergency Decreed By Franco

Madrid (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco decreed Friday night a three-month state of emergency for all Spain to cope with rising violence and dissidence of political opponents, Basque separatists and student insurgents. The chief of state suspended five key civil rights.

Shortly before he signed the decree at a cabinet meeting, students battled police and the University of Madrid closed its doors because of the new disorders.

Under the decree police can search without warrant, hold prisoners indefinitely without charge, exile residents from their home provinces, stifle free speech and prevent public assembly.

Basque terrorism in northern Spain's Guipuzcoa Province brought a regional state of emergency last August and there were scores of arrests.

Some of the Basques, whose language and culture differ greatly from those of other Spaniards, want to set up an independent state in their northern Spanish region.

Franco's decree said actions by minority groups "systematically directed at disturbing peace and public order in Spain" have occurred in recent months, "clearly related to an international strategy, which has reached numerous countries."

The University of Barcelona, with 28,000 students, was closed Jan. 16 "until further notice" after a group of students invaded the office of Rector Manuel Albadelejo and unsuccessfully tried to throw him out of his office window.

The decree suspended five key civil rights — free speech, free choice of place of residence, search without warrant, free association and the right of arrested persons to be charged or freed in 72 hours.

Game Commission Approves New Lab On East Campus

The Nebraska Game Commission Friday gave its okay for the construction of a new laboratory building, since the prospects for a headquarters complex are all but washed up.

The laboratory on the University of Nebraska East Campus will be financed with 75 per cent federal funds. The remainder of the $511,143 estimated cost will come from state game funds.

The lab was to be separated from the administrative office wing in the headquarters which the legislature authorized to be constructed in 1967 and to be financed by a $2.5 million bond issue.

But the Supreme Court held the Unicameral's action violated the constitution's $100,000 debt limitation.

Funds Near Forfeit

Game Commission Director Mel Steen said the lab would have to be built soon or the federal funds would be forfeited.

He said he's delayed bringing the lab subject up in hopes of getting the rest of the complex approved by the Legislature.

Steen admitted his chances are slim, but said he plans to ask the Budget Committee for money to construct the rest of the complex and then pay it back in rent.

He said the 30,000 square feet which is planned for the Game and Parks Department in the new state office building simply isn't enough to bring the whole Lincoln staff under one roof, which was the main idea of the headquarters complex.

Wells Elected

The commission also elected Lee Wells of Axtell as chairman and Charles Wright of McCook as vice-chairman.

Wells joined the seven-man group only last November, but his election keeps intact the custom of electing the ''senior'' member as chairman. He was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of W. C. (Bud) Kemptar of Ravenna whose term expires in September.

Commissioner Bruce Cowgill of Silver Creek said legislation has been proposed to permit commissioners to serve consecutive terms, with Wells' situation specifically in mind.

The commission also:

—Agreed to develop wayside areas west of South Sioux City on United States Highway 20 and near Decatur on U.S. 73.

—Approved the acquisition of 99 acres of three special use areas at a cost of $2.50 an acre.

—Directed Fisheries Division Chief Glen Foster to study the possibility of opening closed sections of Lewis and Clark Lake in northeast Nebraska to commercial fishing.

Dakota-Bound Aircraft 'Has Not Been Found'

Broken Bow (AP) — Civil Air Patrol mission coordinator L. K. Glaze reported Friday afternoon that "the missing aircraft has not been found."

He referred to a six passenger plane missing since the evening of Jan. 11, with four Augustana College Students and two faculty members aboard.

Ground crews and aircraft had been scouring the area between O'Neill and Bassett during the forenoon after a trucker reported a sighting which he thought might have been plane wreckage in the area.

Another report said a party was dispatched to an area near Atkinson where another sighting was reported. The State Civil Defense Agency in Lincoln said it appeared that this sighting involved a smaller plane which had landed some time ago and was not the aircraft which has been the subject of intensive air search in Nebraska and South Dakota.

FHA Discounts To Be Lower Here

The increased maximum interest rate on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration should "lower or even eliminate" discounts charged by mortgage lenders, two Lincoln savings and loan officers said Friday.

The president of one company said that his association had not been making insured loans to any great extent because of the high discount rates. Most discount rates in Lincoln, he said, were running from 3 to 7% with 5 and 6% the most common.

From the standpoint of real estate dealings, he noted, it will mean a "straight savings to sellers."

An officitr from another savings and loan associaton said the increase will put insured loans on par with conventional loans.

He said that discounts under the 6¾% maximums had been at a minimum of 4% in Lincoln.

Both officials termed the government's action as "realistic," especially in view of today's money market.

A Lincoln homebuilder indicated that the move may "help a little" in increasing the number of home sales.

Since it will reduce discount points a person has to pay, he said, it will be easier to buy a home.

Another Lincoln homebuilder did not think there would be much of an increase in home sales, but added that it "depends on how much is available" for sale.

Summary of Conditions

A very deep and large storm center located over northeastern Lake Superior with a trough extending southwest into southern South Dakota and Wyoming will continue to bring cold air southwards around the western edge of the Nebraska-Iowa area and should keep temperatures cold through Sunday.

A high will be over western Tennessee Saturday morning. A cold arctic air mass continues over the area, but winds aloft and generally westerly should tend to move the cold air eastwards.

Skies will continue generally fair through Sunday and no precipitation is expected.

New Type Of Lobbyist Appears In Legislature

BY ROBERT BERG
United Press International

Lobbyists have existed as long as legislative bodies have existed, but in recent years a new type of lobbyist has appeared in the Nebraska Legislature — the ex-lawmaker turned lobbyist.

In the current legislative session there are 11 lobbyists who once served in the Unicameral. Four of them have just turned lobbyist after serving in the 1967 session. One of them, Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, served 14 years as a legislator before making the change.

The first former legislator to become a lobbyist was Robert Crosby, who also served a term as governor before becoming a lobbyist in the late 1950s. He was joined in 1960 by Dave Tews of Norfolk, who served in the 1957 and 1959 sessions.

Since then the others have joined the ranks.

Better Lobbyists

The men apparently are hired by their employers on the theory that they make better lobbyists than persons who have never served in the Legislature.

Ex-legislators, the theory runs, either through their knowledge of the legislative process or their friendship with the senators, get better results in trying to pass or defeat legislation.

How valid is that theory? Do former legislators really make better lobbyists?

"As far as I'm concerned personally," said former Speaker Elvin Adamson of Valentine, "a former legislator would have no extra influence on me as a lobbyist. I don't see that it enhances his ability."

State Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point agrees that "it's not much of an advantage. It all boils down to the individual."

Continues To Help

But Tews, who is lobbying in his fifth general session, said his experience as a legislator continues to help him.

"You can never take away experience you've had on the other side of the ropes," he said.

Former legislator Ross Rasmussen, now a lobbyist for the Nebraska State School Boards Association, said the main advantage in being an ex-legislator is "the acquaintance has been established.

"Also, I know where I can be helpful to them," he said. "Their workload is heavy enough. I'll do anything I can to help them."

wheelock

Rasmussen said the friendship goes only so far, however.

"It is the unwritten rule of the game that a lobbyist never gives a legislator misinformation," he said. "Violation of this leads to virtual exclusion from the chamber. This makes no difference whether he is an ex-legislator or not."

W. W. Folsom New Chairman Of Savings Assn.

W. W. Folsom was elected chairman of the board of Nebraska Central Building and Loan Association Friday at its annual meeting. He formerly served the company as secretary-treasurer.

The position of chairman has been vacant for several years, Folsom said.

Real estate loans during 1968 totaled $1,377,750, he said, and assets at year-end were $10,967,070. Reserves at the end of the year, Folsom said, totaled $1,795,980, and during 1968 $460,880 in dividends were paid.

It was "a good year in spite of the tight money situation," Folsom noted. He added that 1969 should also be a successful year but predicted that the "tight money situation will prevail."

B. W. Folsom was elected secretary of the company and Lowe R. Folsom was re-elected president. Charles W. Watts was re-elected to a five-year term on the board of directors.

Hold over members on the board are W. W., Lowe R. and B. W. Folsom and L. R. Ricketts.

Lincoln Bank South Planning New Building

Lincoln Bank South President Glenn Yaussi announced Friday that bank directors have purchased land in Bishop Heights and are developing plans to construct a new building in the near future.

The statement was made Friday at the annual stockholders meeting.

The site of the new building is on the east side of 27th near Woods Blvd. and about a block away from present banking facilities at 3737 So. 27th.

According to Roger Gohde, bank vice president and manager, 1968 was the bank's "most profitable year" in its three-year history.

Operating earnings before taxes, he said, rose to $48,447 or 48 cents per share compared to 28 cents per share in 1967.

Deposits increased 10% over 1967 and totaled $3,372,998, Gohde said.

The annual report also noted increases in loans and assets. Loans climbed to $2,512,924 — up 16% from last year's total, while assets rose 9%.

Stockholders elected Theodore Forke, a partner in the Forke Brothers firm, as a new member of the board.

Directors re-elected were Paul Amen, Jack Campbell, Arthur Dobson II, Gene Eaton, Donald Endacott, Gohde, Roger Larson, J. Phillip Mahoney, Gates Minnick, Robert Peterson, Frank Sidles, Herbert Walt, W. M. Weaver Jr. and Yaussi.

Officers re-elected by the board were Yaussi, president; Eaton, executive vice president; Gohde, vice president and manager; Richard Kearns, cashier and Judith Adams, assistant cashier.

Crash Hurts Two Youths; One Critical

A 17-year-old Lincoln youth was reported in critical condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Friday as the result of one-car collision with a power pole early Friday morning.

The youth, Kenneth N. Lindbloom of 5000 Myrtle, was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Scott Elliott, 17, of 3216 Curtis Dr., who was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Bryan Hospital.

Police said the car apparently went out of control, hit the south curb at 46th and Normal, and flew about 100 feet before striking the pole.

Lindbloom was thrown out of the vehicle through the driver's door, police reported, and received a head laceration and a leg injury. He was admitted to the intensive care ward at the hospital.

Elliott's legs were pinned in the auto when officers arrived, police said. He was reported as having a head laceration and leg abrasions.

Boy's Fire Call Calm But False

A small boy, who said his name was David, that he was seven years old, and that he lived at 1519 Washington, set off a stir Friday night with a telephone call to police about a fire on his back porch.

Firemen found no fire at the address, and no boy of that name was known there either.

Lt. William Satterthwaite who fielded the call at police headquarters said he sent firemen because "he was so calm and unhurried on the telephone that he really impressed me."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Nebraskans are not characteristically loose with a dollar, particularly tax dollars. There is hardly a unit of government on the scene in the state that does not feel the hot breath of taxpayers on its neck.

This doesn't make Nebraska taxpayers unique, of course, because the trait is pretty common across the country. But it is possible that some people have more to complain about than the Cornhuskers of Nebraska.

In its latest weekly report, Congressional Quarterly (CQ) carried a U.S. Census Bureau rundown on spending by the various states. Nebraska came out looking pretty good in all regards, from a taxpayer's point of view.

In total expenditures for state government, Nebraska ranks 38th among the states. This is considerably below its rank in per capita income, indicating a favorable relationship between ability to pay and actual taxes.

Per capita, Nebraska spends $216 a year, more than only six other states. Forty-three states spend more per capita than does Nebraska. Biggest spender per capita by far is Alaska, where the figure is $968. Interestingly, the second highest spending per capita is found in the 50th state, Hawaii, where it stands at $521.

Nebraska departed from the norm in the various avenues of its expenditures. Nationally, states in total spent $53.2 billion in 1967. At the top of the list was education with $21.2 billion. Highways were second but not even close at $11.2 billion.

Nebraska was far different, spending $109.2 million on highways and only $92.2 million on education. That was before Nebraska adopted its new program of state aid to education, however, and state spending for education in 1968 may well have put it ahead of highways by a small margin.

★

Rating high in the averages for all states combined was spending on natural resources, in sixth place with $1.8 billion. The states individually were not compared on this score.

From 1966 through 1967, spending by the states on natural resources expanded by 17.9 per cent. Nebraska had considerably better than this but is far from finished.

The fact that Nebraska has a lot of room for improvement in natural resources spending was borne out in a report to the Legislature by Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

Fairchild spoke of conservation as an investment rather than an expenditure and this is not hard to understand. He noted that only one-third of the 11.3 million acres of land capable of irrigation in Nebraska have been so treated.

In floods alone, the state sustains a damage of $50 million a year. In those two respects only, the challenge is sobering.

★

Nebraska would not be careless if it doubled its rate of spending on conservation. It would be surprising if natural resources spending did not consistently advance by the states, to the point where it would be among the top.

The world food problems alone are enough to call for an improved effort in such areas as irrigation. Beyond that, the rural areas of the nation cannot afford any inefficiences that would further the decline they already are experiencing for a variety of reasons.

Too, the population growth of the world is a direct burden upon our natural resources. This puts a premium on soil and water conservation, clean air and other natural resources.

It is vital that people recognize the need for conservation before the consequences of neglect become apparent. Once we have depleted our resources, there is no bringing them back so it is incumbent upon us to take good care of what we have.

Hardin Assistants Draw Speculation

WASHINGTON — President Johnson left behind a "too hot to handle" fast ball for President Nixon when he packed up and left for Texas — namely tax reform.

He left behind in the Treasury Department a detailed proposal to plug tax loopholes for the rich and allow more tax relief for the poor.

Under an act of Congress voted when the 10 per cent surtax was passed, the President was instructed to come up with "proposals for a comprehensive reform" of the tax laws no later than Dec. 31, 1968.

The reforms were ready on time. They were prepared by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Stan Surrey, one of the foremost tax experts in the nation, who had spent months working on them. But when he sent them over to the White House, President Johnson held them up. Undoubtedly he knew the proposals would raise a storm with the special interests which pull powerful strings in the back rooms of both political parties. At any rate, he did not send them to Capitol Hill early in January but left them for Nixon instead.

Assistant Secretary Surrey pleaded that they be submitted to Congress. The answer, however, was no.

Meanwhile, retiring Secretary of the Treasury Joe Barr, a former congressman from Indiana, warned publicly shortly before he retired that the country faced a possible "taxpayers revolt" unless there was quick tax reform.

He pointed out that tens of millions of wage earners making $7,000 to $20,000 a year are sore over the fact that some millionaires pay no taxes, at all.

Cliff Hardin, Nixon's secretary of agriculture, has excellent qualifications for the job, but he has selected two interesting figures to help him set farm policies.

His under-secretary will be Georgia's veteran agriculture commissioner, Phil Campbell, who has been a leading opponent of tough federal meat inspection. Now Campbell is supposed to enforce the laws he bitterly opposed.

Housewives will be watching to see whether he lets the cheap slaughterhouses, which had been selling dirty and diseased meat on the market, back into into business.

The new assistant secretary in charge of farm subsidies, Clarence Palmby, has been a leader in the Farm bureau, which has been clamoring to do away with farm subsidies. The Farm Bureau is the champion of the big farms which, if the subsidy system were abolished, would be able to gobble up the small family farms.

Jan Palach, Symbol

Today is the funeral of Jan Palach, the 21-year-old Czechoslovakian philosophy student who set himself on fire to protest the Soviet occupation of his country and tht slow death of the liberal reforms started but a year ago.

His death struck hard at the hearts of his countrymen, panicked a leadership that has become distant from its people and angered and frustrated the occupying forces which have perpetrated a tragedy that all freedom-loving people understand and despise.

The selfless act deepened the present crisis and heightened the potential for disastrous consequences in that the balking leadership might not be able to strike the delicate balance between the legitimate demands for reform by the Czech people on the one hand and on the other, the more stern and compelling demands for regression by the Soviet overlords.

Students and workers have scheduled hunger strikes, work sit-downs and memorial marches to commemorate Palach. What happens in observation of his funeral today could conceivably have a momentous effect on the course of events in Eastern Europe during the coming year.

Fears that the Czech populace might erupt in similar acts of suicidal rebellion might be quieted, however, by this observation from Los Angeles Times correspondent Osgood Caruthers in Prague:

"His (Palach's) action was against the whole concept of the Czech national character and its traditional way of dealing with its foes and political pressures from outside to which it has been historically subjected. It was disturbing to the citizenry because it ran counter to the kind of subtle, sophisticated, 'flower power' passive resistance which the people — rulers and ruled alike — have used to deal with the travail of occupation."

Whatever will happen in their fight to achieve "communism with a human face," the Czechoslovak people have shown the world that the spirit of freedom is not dead in their country.

Responsibility For Indigent

While the State Supreme Court has upheld the law under which counties are forced to levy a tax for the state's care of the mentally indigent, this does not affect the basic injustice of the situation.

A bill is in the Legislature that would shift the expense for such patients from the counties from which they come to the state. Senators ought to recognize the need for such a change.

The counties, of course, are hard-pressed in many cases to provide the funds for patient care. What effect this has on commitment procedures is hard to tell but counties are not prone to take on any financial obligation they can avoid.

Thus, the care of mental cases is likely to be less than it should for so long as the counties are held financially responsible for it. Too, the state has a broader ability to assume this cost than do the various counties.

Beyond that, it does not seem that counties should be held liable for the accident of mental illness. This is the way the situation stands today.

The care of the mentally indigent is a responsibility of all the people of the state, not just those in the counties from which the patient comes. Simply by circumstance, the taxpayers of one county can have a heavy tax load for care of mental patients while taxpayers in an adjoining county have no such expense, at all.

While the court has upheld the law as it stands, that law needs to be changed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Possible Delay Seen In Barter With Soviets; Change In Administrations Factor In Setback

WASHINGTON — On one particular top-secret file which the Nixon administration inherits, so much of the future turns not just for a new political order but for mankind. In that most secret of files are both heartbreak and hope.

How this blueprint for negotiation with the Soviet Union to try to check the nuclear arms race — it is just that — was put together is a largely untold story. A painstaking record of patience and persistence, all that has been done may still come to nought with the change of administrations.

When Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird was before the Senate Armed Services Committee for a confirmation hearing, he was asked whether he believed negotiation with the Soviets should be delayed until the United States was demonstrably strong enough to enter such negotiations. His reply was interpreted as suggesting a postponement of nine to 12 months.

☆ ☆ ☆

Starting all over again has a dismaying sound to those who put so many hundreds of hours into getting complete agreement on a negotiating blueprint. The work began after former President Lyndon B. Johnson's meeting with Premier Alexei Kosygin at Glassboro, N.J., in June of 1967.

Two committees were formed. One was top level, representing State, Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Atomic Energy Commission and the heads of the Disarmament Agency. Contrary to what is often the practice, the top men rather than substitutes were present present at almost every at almost every meeting.

The second committee was made up of technicians devoting full time to working out agreed principles for the American approach to negotiation on both anti-ballistic missiles and offensive missiles. Occasionally the two committees met together to coordinate their efforts. What evolved, as one of the principal participants put it, was complete agreement by all parties on a basic set of guide lines.

While this work was going on, Johnson and Kosygin were exchanging frequent letters. In the file are at least a dozen separate exchanges between the two heads of state.

Johnson at Glassboro had found Kosygin reluctant to go into the question of anti-ballistic missiles. He seemed disinterested. Prodding by the then President and former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara brought almost no response. Johnson's objective, as the letters went back and forth between Washington and Moscow, was to educate Kosygin as to the fantastic cost of an all-out ABM system — a minimum of $40 billion and probably a lot more as Pentagon price tags go — and what this would mean in strain on the economies of the two countries. With documentation from McNamara, he underscored the futility of a system that would make no essential different in the strategic balance of power.

There was movement. Increasingly the response out of Moscow favored a conference. The preliminaries were discussed. The President had his bags packed for Geneva or Moscow.

Then came the heartbreak. On the night of Aug. 20-21 the Russians invaded Czechoslovakia.

But still the President and his close collaborators refused to believe that all their work had gone down the drain. They waited and watched developments in Czechoslovakia. When the Soviet force in that country had been reduced from 21 divisions to five, they were hopeful they could get talks going again at some level.

The ultimate decision would be up to the incoming administration. Interpreting Laird's statement to the Senate as a nine-to-12-months delay, those on the Johnson team felt the momentum would be lost and the opportunity for some abatement of the race gone perhaps forever.

Moscow has just signalled a strong interest in the talks. Pesident Nixon's inaugural address was a fervent commitment to the search for peace. So the top-secret file on missiles may be the first order of business in the new White House.

JEAN BAPTIST P. DuSABLE

They Had A Dream

A plaque in the center of Chicago's blustery, bustling business district marks the spot where his cabin stood. Jean Baptist Point DuSable built it about 1784. He was Chicago's first permanent settler.

A frontier trader, DuSable built his home and a thriving trading post on the north bank of the Chicago River near today's Michigan Ave. Bridge, raised a family and became a man of wealth, power and influence.

Historians are divided over DuSable's origins, but the evidence indicates that he probably was born in Canada around 1750 of French-Negro parentage.

He first appeared in the Chicago area around 1779, after the British seized the territory from the French and set about consolidating their hold on it.

Because of his French ancestry, DuSable had his problems with the British, who once took him prisoner but later became convinced of his loyalty to the Crown and allowed him to trade freely with the Indians.

☆ ☆ ☆

Between 1780 and 1784 DuSable apparently divided his time between he Pinery, a British outpost near what now is Port Huron, Mich., Chicago and a farm he owned in Peoria.

In 1748 or a few years thereafter, DuSable moved his family from Peoria to his trading post in Chicago.

He was married to a Potawatomi Indian named Catherine who bore him a daughter, Susanne, and a son, Jean.

DuSable's outpost became a popular supply point for white trappers, traders and woodsmen and for Indians with furs to barter.

British officials referred to DuSable is a "handsome Negro'' and ''well educated." Others who wrote of meeting him on their journeys said he was a "large man, wealthy and he drank freely."

But whatever his habits, they did not interfere with DuSable's industriousness and business acumen. DuSable's daughter grew up and married. She had a daughter, the first child born in Chicago. DuSable's son struck out on his own, settling near St. Charles, Mo.

☆ ☆ ☆

His children grown, DuSable sold his trading post in 1800 and left Chicago. An inventory of his belongings reveal he was a man of many talents and considerable means.

His settlement consisted of nine buildings. Among them were a mill where he ground his own flour and a bakery where he converted the flour into bread. He had his own workshop and a variety of farm implements with which he tilled the soil on a fairly large scale. His livestock included 30 head of cattle, 2 mules, 38 hogs and chickens.

DuSable moved to St. Charles and lived with his granddaughter. The last record of him was in a bankruptcy proceeding he filed 1814. DuSable died shortly after and was buried in the St. Charles Borromeo Cemetery.

Inconsistencies

Scotia, Neb.

Well, Nixon with a bigger grin than usual is president, Mrs. Nixon first lady, their daughter is married to Ike's grandson and the other Nixon daughter had a dignitary for her escort at the inaguration. So the world should be at ease — except the non-monied element.

I can find no fault with his inaugural address, although it didn't sound like Nixon. If he sticks to it, I'm for him. But his choice of appointees causes me to wonder. Of course, he may have in mind his campaign expenses and promises. His idea of giving private capital a gouge doesn't strike me as a plan to help the poor, rather, the reverse. His appointment of Gov. Hickel of Alaska most certainly was a bold one.

Nixon is pleading for unity. More unity in LBJ's administration could have made a different situation in both the Vietnam outcome and also domestic affairs.

At one time, Nixon was against Medicare but in his campaign, he advocated increasing it, which sounds inconsistent. Speaking of inconsistencies, a bloc of congressmen made LBJ cut $6 billion off the poverty program to curb expenditures before they would go along with the 10% surcharge and soon after that, practically this same bloc advocated building a freeway that would cost $21 billion. Inconsistencies seem to be in style with the GOP.

Abbott Trial

Lincoln, Neb.

The Abbott trial has come and gone and Lincoln seems no less or more aware of anything than before — no better, no worse. The citizens of the city still relax in their apathy, distantly happy, I suppose, in having the thing over with.

Here was an excellent chance for the people of this city to learn, to examine, to express themselves on one of the most important decisions they themselves will utlimately have to make. Steve Abbott was no draft-card-burner in New York or San Francisco, no wild "anarchist" at Columbia or Berkeley. Steve was raised in Lincoln, educated in its schools, taught to live and love by its people. Here people could see in person the agony of conscience their institutions have brought about.

It is all right to send a young child to church where he learns it is wrong to kill, that he must love all men as his brothers and to follow the example of a Man who would not kill even to protect Himself. But if by some chance one of these children takes them seriously and grows up believing it, he is crushed by another of our institutions, the legal system. Here was Steve Abbott, one of these strange children who grew up believing in love, yet did not belong to the "right" church; what they meant was that he had not learned to take the church only half-seriously, he had not learned to compromise what he believed to be right, that he had not learned to forget the sermon as he went out the door.

The people of Lincoln have chosen to remain silent — and The Lincoln Star offered no voice to fill the vacuum — and must now accept the guilt of whatever happens to Steve. Hypocrisy is a cheapened word these days, and I shall not use it, but surely there are some in this city who are at least aware of what happened in their city and could speak out.

County Tax For Mental Patient Care Is Upheld

By Associated Press

The State Supreme Court held Friday that the state may properly require each county to levy property taxes to pay for the costs of caring for patients from the county in state mental hospitals and institutions.

The long awaited judgment reversed the Douglas County District Court, which had held that the levy was, in effect, a state levy of a kind prohibited by the constitutional ban against state property taxes.

The Supreme Court, however, concluded that "a statute requiring a county to levy a property tax for purposes substantially local does not contravene the prohibition, although the statute commingles state and local purposes."

The mental patient levy had been considered a state levy until Nebraska voters in 1966 approved a constitutional amendment prohibiting the state from levying property taxes. The 1967 Legislature then designated the levies as county taxes.

Challenge Author

The Douglas County challenge was brought by Harvey Craig, challenging the 1967 action of the Douglas County Board of Equalization in setting a levy of .81 of a mill for support of Douglas County persons in the Beatrice State Home, and a 2.46 mill levy to pay for the county's patients in state mental hospitals. Douglas County owed $685,539 in the case of the Beatrice State Home, and $2,082,009 for care of mentally ill patients in the Douglas County Hospital and state mental hospitals.

While Craig won his suit in Douglas County, a three-judge panel at Grand Island came to an opposite conclusion in a similar test. The panel held the mental patient levies to be constitutional.

Friday's Supreme Court opinion spares the Legislature a fiscal problem it might otherwise have been confronted with. Had the Douglas County District Court been upheld, the state would have been required to raise an estimated $10 million to $12 million a year from sources other than property taxes to meet the mental patient bill.

Smith Wrote Opinion

Friday's opinion for a unanimous court in the Douglas County appeal was written by Judge Robert L. Smith, who recalled prior court holdings that "in order for the State Constitution to restrict plenary power of the Legislature to tax, the language of restriction must be clear."

Wrote Judge Smith:

"The meaning of the constitutional prohibition (against state property taxes) is related to the national scene of state-local relations. The county has been viewed historically as a limited agency. Funding most, if not all, county functions has served state purposes. State government has remained largely free to supervise local administration of the property tax. Programs of state assistance to local units have been tied to effective, equitable use of the property tax by the local units themselves. Federal, state and local governments have joined to combat conditions of common concern."

The high court also rejected a contention that because the mental patient levy varies from county to county, the levies run afoul of a constitutional requirement that taxes be levied uniformly. The court said, in effect, that the tax needs merely to be uniform within the taxing district — the county in this case — and not statewide.

In other opinions Friday, the court:

—Reversed the Burt County District Court and held that L. W. Weber and J. W. Weber were final and successful bidders on 120 acres of farmland near Tekamah at a referee's auction sale in a partition action. The district court had ordered the bidding reopened after a higher bid was made after the sale, and the Webers appealed.

—Upheld the Richardson County District Court in requiring MFA, a mutual insurance company, to pay $10,000 of a $14,500 judgment obtained by Mildred Pupkes in an auto accident damage suit against DeWane Sailors.

—Affirmed a Valley County jury verdict and judgment for $18,000 against Ellen J. Weeks, driver of a car involved in a 1964 auto accident near Ord in which the late James D. McCall was injured.

—Upheld the Douglas County District Court jury conviction of Edward Lee Lincoln on a charge of burglarizing the Borsheim jewelry store in Omaha in 1967.

—Affirmed the Pierce County District Court finding for Dale Brokaw in a Workmen's Compensation suit against his employer, Edwin Robinson. Chief Justice Paul White dissented.

—Upheld the Platte County District Court jury verdict finding James H. McKee guilty of receiving stolen property with intent to defraud the owner.

—Affirmed the Douglas County District Court in finding Leo Newson guilty of robbing the Goodrich Dairy Store in Omaha in 1967.

Tiemann: State Should Pay For Patient Care

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Norbert Tiemann Friday said he believes the state should eventually assume the financial burden now carried by the counties for the care of mental patients in state institutions.

But, Tiemann told his weekly news conference, the State Supreme Court's decision validating the county institutional levy system "relieves, to some degree, the fiscal problems" facing the Legislature.

Had the court ruled otherwise, financial pressure on the next biennium's budget would have increased by more than $20 million, almost certainly forcing an increase in either the sales or income tax rate, or both.

State Responsibility

"I think eventually the state will have to assume this obligation," the governor said. It is, in his opinion, a state responsibility, Tiemann noted.

Legislation has been introduced to transfer the financing obligation from the counties to the state.

Asked if he would oppose the bill, the governor said "it is difficult to say . . . until we see the tax rates."

Tiemann announced he will present his budget recommendations to the Legislature next Wednesday at 11 a.m.

His proposed figures for the University of Nebraska are being altered, at least in terms of priorities, the governor indicated.

NU Budget

The NU budget represents "the only major adjustment" from the governor's original budgetary outline presented to the special session of the Legislature last month, he said. Other "minor adjustments" have also been written into his final proposals.

Tiemann will budget by program within state agencies, he said, and his proposals willl include a request for additional executive budgetary staff within the Department of Administrative Services.

There will be no funds requested for a pilot project combining health, welfare and institutional services into a regional program. Instead, Tiemann said, initial emphasis on such a regional approach will be placed on mental retardation care.

Total budget figures are "about the same" as those outlined a month ago. At that time, Tiemann suggested a $332.4 million general fund figure for state services, plus $20 million in additional costs to enact a homestead tax exemption and increase the food sales tax credit.

Burbach: Ruling May Affect Distribution Of Road Funds

By United Press International

Revenue Committee Chairman Jules Burbach of Crofton said Friday the Supreme Court's decision upholding the institutions levy law will probably cause the Legislature "to look more favorably" toward the counties in the redistribution of highway funds.

The high court upheld the constitutionality of a 1967 law that requires counties to collect funds for the state's three mental hospitals and the Beatrice State Home.

The law has been criticized by many counties because it had pushed them at or near their legal levy limit of 14.28 mills.

Burbach, who said he was "surprised" at the court's decision, said the levy had caused many counties to neglect many of their normal functions because they lacked enough money. He said this was particularly true in the maintenance of county roads.

Under the present formula for distributing road user funds, the state receives 53%, counties 36% and cities 11%.

The Legislature's interim road study committee has recommended the formula be changed to allocate 60% to the state and 20% each to counties and cities.

A legislative study committee, chaired by State Sen. Elmer Wallwey of Emerson, has introduced a bill to have the state take over the financial burden of operating the state's mental instituions.

When asked what chances he thought the bill has of getting passed, Burbach said: "The counties are going to get relief there or someplace else."

Wallwey, when asked the same question said he could not predict the Legislature's action.

"But," he said, "we're going to give it a real good try. We may have to compromise and accept something like a 75% state share and a 25% county share."

Under the present biennium budget the counties are paying 60% of the $35 million cost and the state is paying 40%.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Rumor About Couple Scares Lady

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "I'm a widow, 71, living alone in what used to be a nice neighborhood. But a new couple moved into a house up the street and there's a rumor the man is a member of the Mafia. I'm so scared these days I don't know what to do. Can't they arrest him or something?"

A. — Stop worrying. Members of the Mafia have bigger things in mind than attacking widows who live in the same block. Chances are the rumor mongers are wrong. If the rumor is true you can be assured of better-than-average police protection in the neighborhood for you can bet the bum's under police surveillance. Join some clubs and get involved in volunteer chores so you won't have to worry about your neighbors.

Q. — "We have a maiden aunt who is about 65 and for years has been squired around by a man her age whom we always assumed was a bachelor. We could never figure out why they didn't get married. But we recently ran into some people from out of town who know this man and told us he's married. We've checked and find this is true.

A. — I think you should mention casually to her what you've learned. But you probably won't be telling her anything she doesn't already know. Chances are she hasn't mentioned the marital status of her boy friend for fear of shocking you.

Q. — "Is there anything to the theory that we all have a fixed fund of energy, and that if we live a high-paced, strenuous life we'll use up the fund and die sooner than if we live at a slow, leisurely pace?"

A. — This theory has been largely discredited. Most researchers today maintain that the more we use our muscles and faculties, the stronger they become, the greater our resistance to deterioration, and the longer we live. At the same time, they caution against overdoing. As we grow older and sense a diminution in our vigor and energy, we should be careful to modify activities accordingly.

Americanism

Liberty, as proclaimed by law and constitutions, can never have full meaning without the added ingredients of Fraternity and Brotherhood; without the spirit of friendliness and unselfishness . . . love for one's fellows. Those powerful qualifying attributes help spell out what Americanism is.

When one sees a family unit, parents and children, with Bibles in hand, attending church to worship as they please . . . then one is witnessing Liberty in its finest and most fullsome forms, for that, too, is American. Freedom of religious worship is equally important, along with economic freedom and freedom from oppression, in America. Then worship God as you please but be sure to worship . . . that is Americanism.

Liquor Monoply For State Proposed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation which would give the state a monopoly in the wholesale liquor business was laid before the Unicameral for consideration Friday.

The bill, LB500, signed by Sens. J. James Waldron of Callaway and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, would provide monopoly control by the State Liquor Control Commission.

The sale of beer would not be affected.

Carpenter estimated that the measure would raise at least $5 million to $10 million a year. And that, he suggested, is "a conservative estimate" since the commission could establish its own profit margin.

Annual Sessions

Among 64 additional new bills dropped into the hopper were proposed constitutional amendments to provide for limited annual sessions of the Legislature and to abolish county courts and justices of the peace.

Both amendments were sponsored by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln.

LB527, signed by 11 senators, would limit annual sessions to 90 calendar days.

LB476 would authorize abolition of the lower courts.

Waldron proposed LB498, which would extend the state aid now going to junior colleges to include tax-supported vocational schools.

Aid Amount

Such assistance would amount to $7.50 for each credit hour enrolled by resident students.

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice proposed another constitutional amendment, contained in LB519, which would permit the State Supreme Court to call retired district judges back to temporary active duty.

Sen. Theodore Wenzlaff of Sutton and 11 co-sponsors signed LB525, which would provide that motor vehicles be issued a single license plate every three years.

Other new proposals would establish the cottonwood as the state tree; transfer the supervision of state aid to countie for Indians from the governor to the State Patrol; remove the limitation on state aid for support of counties for law enforcement for Indians, and remove the sales tax exemption on fuel or energy for the generation of electricity.

Hunting Season

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin seeks in LB505 to restrict the open hunting season on upland game birds to 60 days a year.

Sen. Loran Schmit of David City produced his promised legislation to create a state office of public counsel.

And bills were introduced to increase the qualifications for the director of banking and the director of economic development.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha signed LB469, which permits Nebraska residents to purchase firearms in contiguous states in conformance with new federal legislation.

Schreurs To Succeed Sen. Matzke

Wayne Schreurs, a 40-year-old teacher at Seward High School and former pastor, was appointed Friday to succeed the late Sen. Stanley A. Matzke of Milford as member of the Nebraska Legislature.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, who made the appointment, made the announcement in a personal appearance, with the new senator, before the lawmakers.

Schreurs, pronounced "shures," will represent the 24th Legislative District — Seward and York Counties — during the two years remaining of the four-year term of Sen. Matzke, who died last Sunday.

The new senator is a graduate of Lincoln High School, Westmar College in Le Mars, Iowa, and the Evangelical Theological Seminary at Naperville, Ill.

He has served Evangelical United Brethren Churches in Geneva, Norfolk and Seward, and became a teacher at Seward High in the fall of 1966. He teaches American government, modern problems and psychology.

Tiemann told the Legislature that Nebraska and the 24th District are fortunate to have someone like Schreurs "to fill the awfully big shoes of Sen. Matzke."

Schreurs said he realizes the responsibilities will be "very heavy" but hopes to shoulder them well. He said he needed to be excused Friday afternoon in order to administer a couple of final examinations at Seward High, but thereafter will "try to be back on the job and a little more regular in my attendance from here on in."

By previous decision of the Committee on Committees, Sen. Schreurs will serve on the Agriculture, Labor and Public Health Committees.

Sen. Schreurs is married to the former Caltha Rhoads of Nevada, Iowa. The couple have three children —Greg, 18, freshman at the University of Nebraska; Leslie, sophomore at Seward High, and Anita, a ninth grader.

Solon Plans Boys School Branch Bill

Sen. Fred W. Carstens of Beatrice said Friday he plans to introduce a bill in the Legislature to create a branch of the Kearney Boys Training School between Omaha and Lincoln.

Previously an advocate of moving the institution away from Kearney altogether, Carstens said he forsees little chance that this step will be taken, and the branch institution would be an alternative.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has been opposed to the concept of a totally new and relocated boys training school to replace the Kearney institution.

Tiemann told his news conference Friday that the Carstens proposal to erect a branch between Omaha and Lincoln would "require some conversation" with the Institutions Department. He said there is a possibility the Kearney school could be expanded in lieu of building a new branch facility.

Carstens, who headed a legislative council study committee on crime and delinquency, said the proposed branch school would be designed for the younger offender and older youths who have not become hardened criminals and who stand a chance of rehabilitation.

A main reason for the branch closer to Omaha and Lincoln metropolitan areas is that the skilled psychiatrists and psychologist need in rehabilitation are not available in the Kearney area, he said.

Carstens noted also that 80% of the youths committed to the Kearney institution come from Omaha.

Intangible Property Tax Opposed

Gov. Norbert Tiemann Friday said he will oppose "as vigorously as possible" reenactment of the intangible property tax.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff has sponsored legislation which would apply a two-mill tax to all corporation stock to provide additional tax funds for cities, counties and school districts.

Carpenter has estimated his bill would raise about $20 million a year.

The tax was repealed by the 1967 Legislature when it restructured the state tax base with enactment of sales and income taxes, the governor noted.

In broadening the base, the state tried to "get away from nuisance and insidious taxes," Tiemann said, and the intangible property tax was "one of the worst."

It was "next to impossible to enforce," the governor said, and it acted to drive capital out of the state.

On other matters, Tiemann told his weekly news conference:

—the conflict-of-interest legislation sponsored by Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City is "good legislation." Tiemann commended all members of the Unicameral for co-sponsoring the bill.

—the study report recommending consolidation of a number of state agencies into a new department of natural resources deserves consideration, but he has not yet decided "how to proceed on legislation" which might be prompted by the far-ranging proposal.

—the Legislature appears to have set the stage for "a serious, hard-working session." Tiemann said he is impressed with "the outstanding group of freshman senators."

—he is "yet to be convinced" that the proposal to double the maximum size of the Legislature is desirable.

Bluffs Educator Fatally Stricken

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Dr. Bernard U. Bolton, 54, principal of Thomas Jefferson High School, died of an apparent heart attack at his home here early Friday.

His wife, Maria, died on Tuesday and funeral services for her were held Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Bolton had been in ill health but was continuing his duties as principal of the school.

He held degrees from Coe College, Cedar Rapids, and Creighton University, Omaha.

Dr. Bolton is survived by a son, Thomas N. Bolton, of Des Moines. Funeral services were set for 10 a.m. Saturday at Emanual Lutheran Church.

Suburban Happenings

As the last week of January approaches, suburban residents are on the move . . . in more ways than one. Some are moving as little as possible as far as outdoor activity is concerned, and only when necessary do they make mad dashes, well bundled up against that chill wind which blows everyone cold (with apologies to Shakespeare). Others are going in for moving in a big way — They are moving into new homes or out of old ones, from Lincoln to other towns or the other way around, and from one state to another.

Where you find people moving from a neighborhood in which they have resided for several years, you also find farewell courtesies given by friends and neighbors. Such was the case on Wednesday, Jan. 22, when Mrs. John Tomlinson was hostess at a farewell courtesy at her Meadow Lane home.

The guest of honor at the morning coffee was Mrs. Joseph Barry who will be leaving Lincoln next week after almost six years here. Mr. and Mrs. Barry and their children, Lori, Tim, and Tom are trading their 8301 Elizabeth Dr. address for one somewhere in Lenexa, Kan. — which is a suburb of Kansas City.

Among the neighbors saying their farewells to Mrs. Barry at the coffee were Mrs. Charles Macke, Mrs. Robert Sorensen, Mrs. John Dixon, Mrs. Larry Blevins, Mrs. Robert McCabe, and Mrs. Dick Colerick.

In a little more than a week, Wedgewood Manor will be losing five of its residents — Mr. and Mrs. William Zeitz, and their children Bill, Kurt, and David who are preparing to leave their Lincoln home. It is with understandably mixed emotions that they will be leaving 731 Hazelwood, for Mr. and Mrs. Zeitz have been Lincoln residents for the past 12 years. But they should also feel "at home" in Northbrook, Ill., since both of them grew up in the Chicago area.

This evening, Mr. and Mrs. Zeitz will be the guests of honor at a no-host farewell dinner at the Elks Club.

Lest you think that all of the activity in Lincoln concerns people leaving the city, we want to tell you of some who have just arrived and plan to stay.

The new Cotner Terrace residents we have in mind are Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Hoppe and their son, Richard Douglas, who is 2. They moved into their new home at 6829 Colfax the first of the month and by now they are feeling fairly settled. Former Beatrice residents, we understand that Mrs. Hoppe enjoys reading, and Mr. Hoppe is a "sports addict".

Mr. Hoppe is an employee of the University of Nebraska.

How many of us have dreamed of those warm sunlit places far away as we look out of our windows at all of that snow which just will not go away, or as we struggled against that really unspeakable wind . . .

We really don't give it too much thought, however, until we hear of someone who is at one of those warm sunlit places. If that kind of news will make you feel the cold all over again, you had better not read on.

Eastridge residents Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Evans had guests in their home last weekend. The visitors were former Lincolnites, Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Connell, who now make their home in Hot Springs, S.D. But Mr. and Mrs. Connell are not back in South Dakota — they traveled on south, to Tuscon, Ariz., where they will be spending the remainder of the winter.

town talk

It's very definitely an east coast flavor that we find in the news this morning — New York City — and Washington D.C.

From New York comes news of the arrival of very young Peter Gage who made his appearance on Thursday, Jan. 23. The baby's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gage and his mother is the former Dorrie O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig O'Brien. Also in the young man's family circle are his brother, Patrick — almost five years old, and his sister Greta, who is two. His patenal grandparents are Mrs. Thelma Gage of Lincoln, and John Gage of Harrisburg, Pa. We think we also should mention Peter's maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Raymond.

* * *

It could be California sunshine that we had yesterday — and it could be that Capt. William Ludwick, USN, and Mrs. Ludwick are responsible for it — Or perhaps we should give Mrs. Ludwick full credit — She arrived on Thursday to spend a few days as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Talbot, and was joined here on Friday evening by Dr. Ludwick.

Capt. and Mrs. Ludwick stopped off in Lincoln en route back to Washington D.C. from the west coast where Capt. Ludwick was on Navy business.

This evening Dr. and Mrs. Ludwick will honor his son and daughter-in-law when he entertains at a family dinner at his home.

Evening Wedding

At a candlelight service on Friday, Jan. 24, the wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Barry, and Keith A. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iven May of Hickman, took place at St. Thomas Aquinas Church.

Wearing floor-length frocks of georgette in ruby red were Miss Susan Barry, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Kathleen Barry, also a sister of the bride, Miss Jolene Eden and Mrs. Richard Barnica.

Ronal E. Smith served as best man, and seating the guests were Edward May, Hickman; Steve Messersmith, Cambridge; Dana Stephenson and Steve Smith. The groomsmen were Larry May of Hickman, George Hanigan and Leonard Slope.

The bride appeared in a gown of white delustered satin. Peau d'ange lace formed the high throatline and patterned the long sleeves of the bodice, and the lace was repeated in floral appliques on the slender skirt, which was completed by a court train of the satin. Her tiered veil of illusion and lace was held by a satin pillbox cap, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. May will live at 4711 Calvert. The bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska.

Mrs. JayCees Plan A Benefit Party

Busy committee members met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. William J. Bell to complete preparations for the Mrs. JayCees annual benefit card party, which will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, in the Gateway Auditorium.

The benefit raises funds for the many philanthropies and civic projects in which the organization becomes involved each year. An auxiliary to the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Mrs. JayCees frequently find themselves supplying the "feminine" touch to numerous projects undertaken by their husbands.

The state-wide project of the Mrs. JayCees is aid to the foster children in Nebraska, who receive many wonderful "extras" through the efforts of the organization.

From the left are Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Roger Johnson, benefit chairman, Mrs. Robert Hanna and Mrs. Ray Fraley.

The Charter Day dinner of St. Leger Cowley, DAR, will be held Sunday, Feb. 2, at the Hotel Cornhusker. The chapter will celebrate its 60th anniversary.

Abby: just her dream

DEAR ABBY: About three months ago my wife became sick with nerves and female trouble so she went to her doctor who put her on medication. She seemed to be doing fine until a few weeks ago when she started waking up in the middle of the night kissing me and loving me and calling me "Walter." (That's her doctor's name.)

I called up her doctor and asked him what was going on between him and my wife, and he said, "Nothing. Forget it. All my women patients feel that way about me."

I don't know what to do next. I hate to leave my wife after 22 years of a happy marriage, but I'm sure as heck not going to pay a doctor for the privilege of fooling around with my wife. Do many doctors actually take such liberties with their lady patients? Or could my wife be dreaming?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I have no statistics, but it's a pretty good bet that there are more women who dream about their doctors than doctors who would risk their practices by taking such liberties. But if the doctor actually said what you said he said, he's either joking or he's an ass.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for saying that in case a marriage breaks up the bride is entitled to the gifts given to her by HER side of the family, and the groom is entitled to those given by HIS side.

I recently spent three months in India and while there I attended two weddings. Altho the participants were Christian, the culture is 5,000 years old and their customs are deeply ingrained in their lives.

After the ceremony, a "reception" is held and all the gifts are opened. Each gift is listed, described and the value noted in a large ledger. There are two columns, one for the bride's side, and one for the groom's side. I later learned that the reason for this was in case of a separation there will be no question about who gets what. Sincerely, C. C. Y. SR.,

BELTSVILLE, MD.

The bidding:

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

The bidding by the opponents frequently furnishes declarer with a valuable guideline to the best method of play. For example, consider this deal where West's overcall enabled declarer to bring home an optimistic slam.

West leads the queen of hearts and South, faced with a wide choice of plays, decides to credit West with all the missing high cards because of his overcall.

Accordingly, he wins the heart with the king and leads back a low club. West goes up with the king and returns a club to dummy's jack. His clubs fully established, South's only remaining concern is to avoid a heart loser.

Spurning the possibility of arranging a heart ruff in dummy, which he realizes East might be able to overruff, declarer turns instead to a squeeze. He draws four rounds of trumps and cashes the A-Q-7 of clubs to produce the following position:

North

The lead of the eight of diamonds puts West out of commission. He cannot afford to part with the ace of spades, so he discards a heart. Declarer thereupon sheds dummy's king of spades and wins the last two tricks with the A-10 of hearts.

Note that if declarer wins the opening heart lead in dummy in order to take a club finesse at trick two, he cannot make the contract.

In effect, declarer has to visualize at trick one that a squeeze will occur at trick eleven if he wins the first heart in his hand and returns a low club. Once South passes this admittedly difficult obstacle, he has smooth sailing from then on.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

NE RIPS NORFOLK, 62-45

...Third Quarter Lapse Hurts Panthers

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

Lincoln Northeast outscored Norfolk, 10-1, at the start of the third quarter and held the East Big Ten club to only one field bucket that entire period to pull away for a 62-45 victory at Lincoln East Friday night.

The triumph is the seventh straight without a loss for the top-rated Rockets, who tangle with Pius X at Pershing Auditorium tonight. Norfolk lost its second straight after eight opening victories.

"I thought it was one of our better games as far as controlling the ball was concerned," Rocket coach Ed Johnson said. "We didn't lose it on mistakes and kick it away too many times."

Northeast took the lead for good at 9-7 on a pair of free throws by Tom Novak and had three eight-point leads in the second quarter before Norfolk closed the gap to 29-25 by halftime.

However, the Rockets scored five buckets to a single free throw by Norfolk in the first 5½ minutes after intermission to establish a 13-point lead. Northeast built a 17-point lead late in the third fray that Norfolk cut to 11. However, the Panthers' 4-for-23 performance from the field the second half kept them from getting any closer.

Don Strain, who shared the pivot for Northeast with Harold Hill, hit a layup off the fast-beak to trigger the Rockets' third-quarter surge. Tom Maupin followed with a layup on an assist from Tom Novak and then Maupin hit from the left corner. Dan Cook hit the next two buckets, the last one on a steal and layup after Maupin forced a loose ball.

Hill played only in the fourth quarter after collecting three fouls in the first 3½ minutes of the game and all 12-rockets who suited up saw action.

"Northeast never has any outstanding individuals, they just all beat you," said Norfolk coach Dennis Edwards. Norfolk lost two starters via fouls, Tony Wright and guard Terry Munson, who had four infractions the first five minutes, and was whistled down just one minute later after coming back at the start of the third quarter.

"Munson's not a great scorer but he's our quarterback and best feeder," Edwards explained. "Chapman (6-4 Larry) is normally our big scorer but we just didn't get him the ball the second half."

Asked what kind of club it would take to stop Northeast, he replied, "Anytime they run into a club that has size underneath and has somebody that can defense Cook and Novak, they will be in trouble."

Beatrice Clips Pius X Behind Strong 2nd Half

. . . BOLTS' SEASON LOG NOW AT 4-5

Beatrice put on a spirited second half spurt to come from behind and edge the Pius X Thunderbolts, 66-62 on the losers' court Friday night.

Two key field goals in the last 45 seconds by 6-4 center Gary Kasper snuffed out a Pius threat to send the game into overtime.

It was the sixth victory in 11 tries for the Orangemen under first year coach Neil Nannen. The loss left Pius at 4-5 on the season.

The 'Bolts managed to hold a 19-15 first period lead on the shooting of 5-9 guard Riedell Lintz, and 5-11 guard Joe Vlock threw in nine points in the second quarter to keep Pius in front.

Vlock's five quick points gave the 'Bolts a six-point lead at 24-18 with under six minutes to play, and even though the contest was later tied four times, Pius stayed in front at the half, 36-32.

Nannen's Orangemen then put the clamps on the Pius backcourt duo and the 'Bolts failed to score during the first 4:16 of the third period, managing only seven points in the entire quarter.

Kasper hit five points, but Beatrice could get only 10 altogether and still trailed, 43-42 after three periods.

Then the visitors started to roll. After Pius' Gary Walker hit a pair of free throws to make it 46-42, Beatrice scored 10 straight points for a 52-46 edge and later led 59-50 with 3:22 to play in the game.

Pius then rallied to tie it 60-60 on a jumper by Lintz with 55 seconds to play, but Kasper's layups off fast breaks that caught the 'Bolts flatfooted, gave the Orangemen the win.

Kasper had a game high 21 points, while Lintz topped Pius with 18.

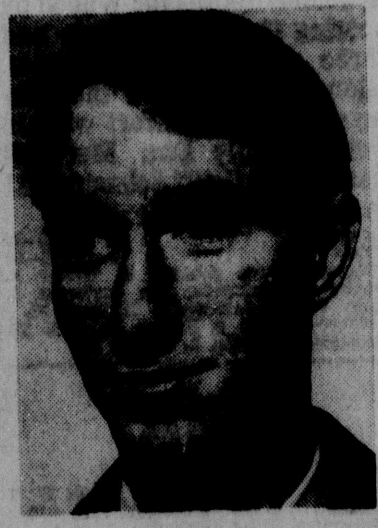
DAVE OLDFIELD



RANDY NELSEN

Two '68 Champs Eye District Titles

. . OMAHA BECKONS

Two 1968 district champions will lead the El Rancho Boxing Club into action Wednesday and Thursday night in the Southeast District Golden Gloves at Pershing Auditorium.

Both Randy Nelsen and Dave Oldfield will be bidding for repeat trips to the Midwest Golden Gloves in Omaha next month.

Oldfield won at 112 pounds in the Southeast District tourney last year, then failed to make his weight in Omaha. He is expected to come into the ring this year in the 125 or 132 pound division.

Nelsen, the middleweight champion a year ago, was an opening night loser in the Midwest Tournament. He likely will be competing as a 165-pounder next week.

Competition is set in 10 weights — 112, 119, 125, 132, 139, 147, 156, 165, 178 and heavyweight.

The battle for the team championship will be among the Robtrts Dairy Team, coached by Larry Emery; the El Rancho team, coached by Ted White; and Fairbury under the direction of Bill Edwards.

Mike Larchick, a former champion, is expected to send two or three fighters into the ring, but doesn't have the quantity to vie for the team prize.

A few fighters also are expected from Blair and Falls City. Eldro Hansen, co-chairman of the sponsoring Lincoln Master Barbers Association, has set weigh-ins for 3 p.m. Wednesday at Pershing Auditorium and stressed that all interested fighters must be present at that time.

Bills Say Gregory Is Off Crutches

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills said Friday rookie fullback Ben Gregory, from Nebraska who suffered torn ligaments in his left knee last season, is walking without crutches.

Gregory underwent surgery after suffering the injury against Miami. The injury was so severe that it cast doubt upon his football future.

Koosman Injured In Home Accident

New York (AP) — Jerry Koosman, the New York Mets' 19-game winner, barely escaped a serous injury Thursday night while popping corn at his Elmhurst, N.Y., apartment. When hot butter spilled on his left hand, he suffered painful blisters.

Dr. Peter LoMotte, the club physician, told Koosman he would have to wear bandages on the left hand for about a week and was lucky to have escaped serious burns.

Bruno Gets Win

Rome (AP) — Italy's Bruno Arcari knocked out West German challenger Willie Quatour in the seventh round of their scheduled 15-round title bout Friday night and retained his European super-lightweight crown.

JIM BROOKS

Ames, Iowa — If nothing else, Nebraska's vacation from the Big Eight basketball race has proved that you can actually make progress while standing still.

But there's no more standing still for the Cornhuskers, who hope to get back into the race here against Iowa State in Saturday's televised matinee contest.

"It looked like we were out of the race when we took off for the semester break," says Cornhusker coach Joe Cipriano. "Now we have a chance to get back in it."

When the Cornhuskers fell to Kansas State on Jan. 7 they shared the cellar with Iowa State and Missouri with 0-2 records. But things have changed. The Cornhuskers are still in the cellar because they haven't won a conference game, but now all other teams but unbeaten Colorado also have two or more losses.

Iowa State has been one of the chief troublemakers for the contenders, having handed both Kansas and Oklahoma State their second conference losses here.

Cipriano admits that long layoffs are generally not healthy for basketball teams. "But as much work as we needed, it's probably been good for us," he says.

One specific area of concentration during the layoff has been the fast break. "We've spent a little more time on getting the ball out. We were taking too much time showing off our rebound ability before," he notes.

Emphasis on the running game may result in a new lineup, with 6-4 junior Lee Torrens, who had a good effort at Kansas State, cracking the front line.

At mid-week Cipriano was leaning toward a starting group of Torrens and Bob Gratopp at forward, Jim Brooks or Leroy Chalk at center and Sam Martin and Tom Scantlebury at guard although Scantlebury has had a touch of the flu.

Size, Iowa State's strong point last year, is a weakness this year for the Cyclones, but their front line of Bill Cain (6-6), Aaron Jenkins (6-3) and Dave Collins (6-2) has been effective.

This trio outrebounded Oklahoma State's front line of Amos Thomas (6-7), Joe Smith (6-5) and Charles Savell (6-9), 28-18 Monday night.

Jenkins, a junior college transfer, sparked the upset of Oklahoma State. His 16.2 scoring average ranks eighth in the Big Eight and Cain's 20.0 mark is third.

Ames, Iowa — Nebraska's freshman basketball team, idle for over a month, returns to action here Saturday morning against the Iowa State yearlings.

Coach Bill Harrell's Cornhuskers face a potent 1-2 combination in Iowa State's Gene Mack and Pat Melloy, averaging 28.8 and 19.8 points, respectively, in five games.

"I know their varsity had to go into overtime to beat them, so it's going to be a tough test for us," says Harrell.

Tiger Free Tosses Edge LSE By 60-54

Hastings —Hastings hit 24 of 32 free throw attempts Friday night, counting heavily on the charity tosses in a fourth quarter rally, to edge Lincoln Southeast, 60-54.

The Tigers, led by Mike Nicolarsen and Jim Gessford who scored 21 and 20 points respectively, had knotted the score at 39-all at the three-quarter mark, but allowed Southeast to take control early in the fourth quarter.

But the Knights surrendered two quick three-point plays with about six minutes left in the game to pull Hastings within two points.

Southeast went into a full-court press as Hastings took the lead and began pulling away and the Knights were forced into a fouling situation.

Hastings connected on the majority of its free throw chances to outscore the Knights, 21-15 in that final period and cement the win.

Southeast led, 7-6, after the first quarter of play, but the Tigers came back for a 25-22 halftime lead as Gessford scored 12 points in that period to keep Hastings in the game.

Southeast's Rick Novak, counted on heavily by the Knights, managed only one field goal during the game and hit only 2-6 from the line.

Novak spent much of the game in foul trouble as the Knights committed 23 infractions, while Hastings was called for only 11.

Steve Kramer was the top scorer for the visitors with 15 points, while Don Grahm added 11.

Links Pasted At Columbus

Columbus — Columbus' seventh-ranked Discoverers took a substantial lead at the half and went on to trounce Lincoln High, 74-54, in prep cage action here Friday night.

The Links were able to get within eight points of their hosts in the second half before the Discoverers built the advantage again to post their seventh victory in eight starts.

The loss is the sixth in a row after two opening victories for coach Alden Johnson's Links, who host Omaha Central in Johnson Gym tonight. Central is fresh from an upset over fourth-rated Omaha Westside Friday night.

Two Share Crosby Golf Lead At 68

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP) — Two lesser lights in pro golf, Terry Wilcox and Jim Colbert, tied for the first-round lead Friday with four-under-par scores of 68 in the rain-delayed $150,000 Bing Crosby Tournament.

Wilcox, 30, from Bronxville, N.Y., fired four birdies on the final nine holes at Cypress Point. Colbert, 27, of Kansas City, Kan., blazed five under par through 16 holes but bogeyed the 17th.

He finished in the final group as darkness arrived on the Pebble Beach course.

Wilcox boasted a 37-31 while Colbert had 32-36 on a day when showers fell during the morning but gave way to a docile afternoon.

Wilcox, who won $14,000 in 1968, and Colbert, who collected $12,000, finished a stroke ahead of the challenging trio in this tournament which already has been set back one day because of Thursday's storm.

Deadlocked in second place at 69 were Steve Spray, who blew a chance for the lead when he three-putted from 1½ feet on the fourth hole, Dan Sikes and Australian Bruce Devlin.

Spray and Sikes, both 36-33, played the Spy Glass Hill course while Devlin conquered rugged Pebble Beach with 33-36.

All three courses for the Crosby play to par 72.

Succumbs At Age 85

Portsmouth, Ohio (AP) — Al Bridwell, a one-time major league baseball great, died in Mercy Hospital Friday at the age of 85.

Peggy Fleming Chosen Female Athlete Of Year

. . . DEBBIE MEYER CLOSE SECOND

New York (AP) — Pretty Peggy Fleming, the Dresden Doll of U.S. figure skating, was named Female Athlete of the Year Friday, edging swimmer Debbie Meyer in the closest balloting in the 38-year history of the annual Associatd Press poll.

Miss Fleming, the only U.S. gold medal winner at the Winter Olympics, edged Miss Meyer, the first swimmer ever to win three individual gold medals at the Summer Olympics, by just six points in the nationwide voting by sports writers and broadcasters.

Miss Meyer, actually received one more first-place vote than Miss Fleming, 158-157, and the two each had 90 second-place votes. But Miss Fleming gained the award with 47 third-place votes to 38 for Miss Meyer. That gave Miss Fleming 698 points to 692 for Miss Meyer.

Points were awarded on the basis of three for a first-place vote, two for a second and one for a third. Besides the two U.S. Olympians, no one else in the voting was a serious contender.

Golfer Kathy Whitworth was a distant third with 285 points, followed by tennis star Billie Jean King, 272; golfer Carol Mann, 130; Canadian skiier Nancy Green, 107; track star Wyomia Tyus, 30; tennis player Nancy Richey, 20; Czechoslovakia's Olympic gymnast, Vera Calvska, 16, and Penny Ann Early — trying to become the first female jockey to ride against men — 15.

Miss King won the award in 1967, but there were only two serious contenders this time — Miss Fleming and Miss Meyer.

Miss Fleming, a fragile 5-foot-3½, 108-pounder, captured the spotlight for the United States in the Winter Games at Grenoble, France, with her artistry on ice.

The green-eyed brunette, who later turned professional for a reported $500,000 to make movies, television specials and appear in ice shows, became the first U.S. gold medal winner in figure skating since 1960.

She also reaffirmed America's position in the sport, which suffered a crushing blow when virtually the entire team was killed in a plane crash in 1961.

Miss Fleming, resting at her Los Angeles home after "too many hotels, and too much hotel food, said after being told of her selection, "I think it's a wonderful award to receive. I think it's a big honor. I want to thank all the people who voted for me."

And, she added, "I'm going to celebrate by staying home and eating my mom's home cooking."

Miss Meyer, at 16 three years younger than Miss Fleming, proved her indominatable spirit at the Summer Games in Mexico City competing despite illness and achieving a unique feat by winning freestyle races at 200, 400 and 800 meters.

The 5-foot-7 116-pound teenager from Sacramento, Calif., also holds all the standard world freestyle records from 200 to 1,500 meters.

Wells Chairman Of Game Group

By Associated Press

Lee Wells of Axtell was elected chairman of the Nebraska Game Commission Friday, and Charles Wright of McCook was named vice chairman.

The new chairman was appointed by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann to fill the vacancy created by the death of W. C. (Bud) Kemptar whose term would have expired in September.

The commission also directed Fisheries Division chief Glen Foster to study the possibility of opening a closed portion on Lewis and Clark Lake to commercial fishing.

J. E. Sullivan Honor Is 'Neat' To Debbie

. . . NATION'S TOP AMATEUR

DEBBIE MEYER

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — Despite all the awards she has won as the world's fastest woman swimmer, Debbie Meyer still is all teen-age girl.

Good things are "neat." Bad things are "icky."

For Debbie, 16-year-old triple gold medal winner at the Olympics last fall, the thought of winning the James E. Sullivan Memorial Award as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete was neat.

Having to write English compositions is icky.

Friday, she commented with quiet enthusiasm on the news that she had won the Sullivan award and ranked it right along with her Olympic victories as the biggest thrill of an award-packed, record-setting year.

"I'd have to say it's really about the highest honor I've received," said blonde, blue-eyed dazzling Debbie during an interview. It came after her usual morning workout in the pool and before driving to Berkeley with coach Sherman Chavoor for a luncheon club appearance.

"I thought it would be really neat to win it," she said, and now that she has, "I think it's really unbelievable."

Debbie, a trim 5-foot-7 120-pound high school junior, has suffered a natural letdown since the high-gear tuneup pace she set for the Olympics, Chavoor, coach of the U.S. Women's Olympic swim team, said.

"I'm trying to get back to where I was before," Debbie noted.

Also, she plans to deversify her swimming, training now for the butterfly and individual medley events. For the Olympics, all her attention was on the freestyle and she won gold medals in that event for 200, 400 and 800 meters.

And she said she will work at lowering some of her own records.

In the meantime, Debbie has missed weeks of school and has lots of homework to catch up on.

"I've got 10 Hemingway short stories to read and some essays to write. Essays are icky," she said.

But he grinned broadly and reported she got an "A" in U.S. history.

Does she plan to aim for the 1972 Olympics at Munich, Germany, when she will be 20?

"That depends on where we are, her father is subject to transfer in his job and where I go to school. I'd like to go to UCLA and major in history and minor in P.E. physical education."

In the more immediate future is a meet at Yale in several weeks and the national AAU meet in Long Beach, Calif., in April.

Debbie has let her closely cropped hair grow since the Olympics and now it's down around the base of her neck.

She giggled and issued a mock groan when Chavoor said, "We'll get it cut off pretty soon."

Knights On Move After Beating OC

Omaha, Neb. (AP)—The third place Omaha Knights of the Central Hockey League pulled within two points of the Kansas City Blues here Friday night by defeating the Oklahoma City Blazers 4-2.

Omaha jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Ron Boehm and Juda Widing.

The game was marked by close floor and body checking as the Knights skated before the second largest home crowd of the season—5,187.

Moore Moved Up

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Wally Moore, freshman football coach at Notre Dame for three seasons, has been moved up to the varsity staff as assistant offensive line coach. The announcement came Friday from the head coach, Ara Parseghian.

Wahoo Clinches Tie For Capitol Crown

. . . WAVERLY FALLS, 60-59

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Waverly — Wahoo clinched at least a tie for the new Capitol Conference crown here Friday night when the Warriors held off a scrappy Waverly quintet to squeeze out a narrow 60-59 victory.

Coach Ron Seymour's host Vikings came on strong at the end, but were unable to overcome the effects of a slow start. Waverly was unable to penetrate a tight Wahoo zone defense at the outset and the winners controlled both backboards, despite a height disadvantage. As a result, Wahoo zoomed to a commanding 20-6 first quarter lead.

Waverly narrowed the gap to ten at halftime, 38-28, then outscored the favored Wahoo five, 20-11, in the third stanza to come within one point, 49-48, at the end of the third period.

The scoring pace slowed in the final canto. Dick French, who paced all scorers with 25 points, led a Wahoo outburst which gave the winners a 53-48 edge. Then on four separate occasions Waverly closed the marginto a single point, but were never able to grab the lead.

The hosts were guilty of several crucial fourth quarter turnovers as the play between the two arch rivals became ragged and somewhat heated in the closing moments. Each team managed but 11 points in the final eight minutes of action.

Wahoo's Jim Lindau tallied the deciding bucket with 41 seconds left with the second offensive rebound of teammate Steve Trutna's missed free throw. It gave the Warriors a three-point margin which enabled them to survive despite a desperation basket by Waverly's Dave Johnson at the final buzzer. closed the margin to a single in double figures for Wahoo by scoring 12, while Waverly had three players in twin totals. Glen Schultz paced the Vikings' comeback effort with 16 points, while Dan Marshall had 12 and Geoff Schneider 11 in a losing cause.

Two Challenging In NAIA Meet

Kansas City (AP) — Arkansas AM&N and Eastern Michigan both made strong starts toward dethroning defending champion Prairie View A&M as the fourth annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics indoor track and field meet got under way Friday night in Municipal Auditorium.

Each school qualified three men for Saturday night's finals in the 60-yard dash and the 60-yard high hurdles.

In addition, Arkansas AM&N sent three of its jumpers into Friday night's long jump finals — the only event in which finals were scheduled Friday night. Eastern Michigan had one long jumper in the seven-man finals.

Westmar Rips Midland By 98-83

Westmar, Iowa (AP) — Westmar took over the lead with 7:29 remaining in the first half to coast to an easy 98-83 Tri-State Conference basketball victory here Friday night.

Sophomore guard Bob Clark led Midland with 33 points while Westmar's sophomore guard Curt Strathman hit for 24.

Union College Moving Some Nurses Training To Lincoln VA Hospital

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Union College has started to bring part of its clinical nursing instruction to Lincoln with a beginning course slated to be offered at the Veterans Administration Hospital next fall, it was announced Friday.

In the future, the Seventh Day Adventist school plans to bring even more of its baccalaureate nursing program here from Denver, Colo. although never the entire program, reported Dean Neil Rowland.

All of the school's clinical nursing courses have been provided at the Seventh Day Adventist denomination's hospital in Denver, Porter Hospital. As a result, all clinical instruction was reserved for a students' junior and senior years in college.

Under the new plan, the beginning course in nursing will be offered at the VA Hospital during a student's sophomore year, explained Rowland.

A complete reorganization of the nursing curriculum and a chageover from the quarter system on the Denver campus to a semester system in line with the Union College academic year will accompany the new program, he noted.

Union College has 42 nursing students on its Denver campus as well as nine faculty members. Eighty freshmen and sophomore girls are enrolled on the Lincoln campus as student nurses.

The school is making the move to offer more clinical courses in Lincoln because nursing accreditation agencies have recommended that Union's program be better integrated.

"Accreditation agencies are not happy with split campuses," according to Rowland.

The dean predicted that enrollment in nursing will increase as more of the instruction is located here "because the girls don't like to leave the social life of this campus."

Since the Union College four-year degree program began in 1946, the clinical instruction has been offered at Porter Hospital because the school "wants its students to get nursing experience in a hospital administrated by the denomination," Rowland explained.

"We're trying to prepare nurses to staff our own hospitals so students should have some experience in them," he said.

Porter is the closest Seventh Day Adventist hospital to Lincoln.

Even when more of the clinical instruction is brought to Lincoln, a year or at least a semester of the program will be reserved for the Denver campus to meet those objectives, the dean indicated.

He declined to comment on the possibility of establishing a nursing program here in which some of the students might take the clinical instruction reserved for Porter Hospital at a Lincoln hospital, instead.

Many factors would be involved in such an arrangement that have not been determined or discussed, he said.

Apathy, Glamourization Blamed In Drug Use

Lincoln Police Officers attending the final day of the 24th Annual Police Training School were told Friday that apathy, glamourization, and ill-informed proponents were major obstacles in combatting drug abuse.

Speaking was Sam Gooder of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs in Omaha, who said that parents who don't know or don't care what their children are involved in are a prime factor in the difficulty of curbing harmful drug use by youngsters.

Gooder also blasted news media and self-styled "authorities" who present an attractive and safe picture of drug use.

He commented, however, that the pendulum seems to be swinging back and more and more youths and adults are beginning to realize the potential harmful effects.

Marijuana was a chief point of discussion between questioning police officers and Gooder.

Gooder, who is also head of the vice detail of the Omaha Police Department, said that although marijuana is often defended as being physically non-habit forming, many experts agree that it does create a psychological dependence.

"This is just as serious as physical dependence," Gooder said.

He also pointed out that statistics indicate that about 80% of the users of "hard drugs" formerly used marijuana.

According to Gooder, the use of LSD and other closely related drugs and marijuana is increasing slightly in this area, but not nearly so much as drug abuse is increasing in many other parts of the country.

"We are generally the last ones to run into such problems, because this is a more conservative area," he said.

Mrs. Gauger Named To Bus Committee

Mrs. Wendell Gauger was appointed to the Mayor's Bus Committee to fill the vacancy created by committee member Mrs. Shirley Wittler moving out of town.

Mrs. Gauger is president of the Lincoln League of Women Voters.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said he will appoint a new committee chairman in the near future. Former chairman, Ross Martin, resigned from the committee last November.

The mayor said he was also considering a possible addition of two more members to the 18-member board.

The committee decided against taking any action on Lincoln City Line's request for a rate increase.

Members decided to review the application before discussing the rate increase.

Foreign Travel Groups To Meet With Students

Representatives of three high school foreign travel and language study organizations will introduce their programs to interested Lincoln students at a meeting at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 5, in the Lincoln High School auditorium.

The Modern Language League, Foreign Study League and Experiment in International Living will be represented to present brief explanations and confer further with students and parents, Associate Supt. R. L. Fredstrom announced.

The program is being offered because a number of students and their parents have expressed an interest in having foreign travel and study as a summer educational experience, he said.

"The Lincoln Public Schools are in no way attempting to influence pupils or parents in respect to whether or not they participate in these programs. The meeting has been arranged solely for the convenience of having information concerning various programs made readily available," Fredstrom emphasized.

Bevel Barred From Defending Ray

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle told the Rev. James Bevel Friday he may not help defend James Earl Ray against a murder charge in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. This, the judge said, is because Bevel is not a lawyer.

Bevel, formerly associated with King in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, says he has evidence which would acquit Ray. He and lawyer Percy Foreman, Ray's chief defense attorney, conferred with the judge earlier in the day.

Businessman Staking His Future On Work Of Mentally Retarded

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Columbus — Dean Merry, a go-getter businessman, is not an "equal opportunity" employer.

He's undertaking to turnabout the picture frame industry, and he's going to do it almost solely with mentally retarded help.

"They needed me; I needed them," Merry said as he planned his shop layout, his sales, his bookkeeping.

Things began developing in Merry's Photo Studio about four years ago.

"I was doing work for businessmen," he recalled, "and occasionally one would want 'something special' for a display. Well . . . I could print them a picture bigger than their competitor's maybe, but what else was there to do?"

So he went to work in his home basement and came up with the "Merry Merchandiser," an aluminum, fold-up picture display case. Word got around and eventually he had four helpers working part-time in his basement to keep up with the orders.

Then, "just as I was going good, Eastman Kodak had some labor problems and stopped making the cardboard picture frames," he said.

Fortunately, soon afterward a Chicago company bought the manufacturing rights and the supply of frames started flowing again. But after a year that firm too gave up and Merry again was scouring the country for frames.

That did it. Merry thereupon went to the patent holder and bought the rights to make the frames himself.

One delay followed another, but by last summer he was looking for a plant.

That's when the Platte Valley Association for Retarded Children entered the picture. The association last fall took over a former school building on the northeast side of town and transformed it into an "opportunity center," a workshop for the "trainable" retarded. At first Director Art Barrow and his volunteer staff kept their charges busy making gift items, etc., but they kept looking for more meaningful work.

Someone thought, "Say, how about this business Dean Merry's going into? I wonder if he'd be willing to try using our people?"

They arranged a contract and, by Feb. 15, the Columbus Opportunity Center will be producing picture frames. Merry will have at least eight retarded people on the production line, working with a couple of non-retarded who will run the equipment that might be dangerous.

Park, Recreation Directors To Meet

About 250 park and recreation directors will examine the current and future directions of these activities in the community at the combined winter institute of the Mid-Continent Regional Park and Recreation Conference and Midwest District National Recreation and Park Association.

The institute will be held Jan. 29-31 at the University of Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln.

The group will examine the latest in parks and recreation guidelines, and will discuss how to best motivate a department, work with organized groups and energize the parks and recreation community.

Florida Arrests Rizzo On Local Robbery Charge

A former Lincoln man has been taken into custody in Eaugallie, Fla., in connection with a Nov. 11 burglary in which $2,410 was taken from Harvey's Texaco Service at 44th and O.

Inspector Robert Sawdon said a felony warrant was issued for the man, Vic Rizzo, 31, Thursday and that he was taken into custody by Florida officials after Lincoln Police acted on a lead that he was in that area.

Rizzo is being held pending extradition to Nebraska, Sawdon said.

Also known as Richard Two and Richard Arrigo, Rizzo was a one-time president of the Outcasts Motorcycle Club of Lincoln.

Junked Cars Will 'Vanish' This Weekend

Junked cars will be vanishing off residential property in Lincoln this weekend.

On Saturday and Sunday, trucks will be carrying away abandoned cars which owners want removed from their property before "Operation Goodbye Junker" starts in the city Feb. 1.

The operation is an all-out effort to remove some 2,400 abandoned cars in the city. A police officer will head the full-time project to enforce the city ordinance prohibiting such vehiclis within the city.

An owner of an abandoned car has ten days to remove the vehicle after notice is served by the police department that the vehicle has been abandoned for 30 days.

Failure to remove the car within the ten days constitutes an offense which is punishable in court. The city also has the right to remove the vehicle and charge the owner for the costs incurred.

The Lancaster County Emergency Radio Service (REACT) is volunteering its services this weekend to get cars removed before the city starts enforcing the ordinance.

Harry Hartley, who is coordinator of the abandoned vehicle removal operation, said REACT will be removing 35 cars which will be scrapped by a local industry.

He said the free removal service will be provided to residents every other weekend.

During the past month, Leo Scherer, administrative assistant to the mayor, has been touring the city searching for abandoned car locations.

Scherer said one residential lot had nearly 55 junked cars on it.

Lincolnite Promoted

David L. Bowers, 28, a native of Lincoln who is serving on the aircraft carrier "Enterprise," was commissioned chief petty officer Jan. 16. A graduate of Northeast High School, Bowers escaped injuries during the recent explosion on the carrier. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bowers of 6110 Leighton.

Stock Market Rally Fizzles

New York (AP) —A technical rally in the stock market ran out of gas midway through its third straight session Friday, and the list ended mixed. Trading was moderately active.

Volume was 12.52 million shares, compared with 13.14 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which showed a gain exceeding a point at the start, closed with a loss of 1.61 at 938.59.

Profit taking and "evening-up" of trading accounts prior to a weekend always has been a feature of the stock market, especially when big news might be brewing.

This was especially true this weekend because of the start of what were heralded as "substantive" talks in Paris on Vietnam peace.

What news, good or bad, might emanate from Paris was anybody's guess; but one thing was unanimous, that any real progress toward peace would be very bullish for stocks. By the same token, any disappointment would be bearish.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a minimal loss of .1 at 357.0 with industrials off .4, rails up .4, and utilities off .4.

Of 1,568 issues traded, 656 rose, nd 654 fell. New highs for 1968-69 totaled 32 and new lows 13.

Eight of the 15 most-active stocks advanced, and 7 declined.

INA Corp. was the most-active stock, off ½ at 42⅞ on 574,700 shares. INA traded on some big blocks, including one of 125,000 shares. The market seems to have turned lukewarm on INA since a bid for control by Levin-Townsend Computer ran into government objections.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregular on volume of 7.11 million shares compared with 7.89 million Thursday. The exchange's index rose 2 cents to $32.60 but losses exceeded gains.

Livestock Prices Up At Omaha

Feeder Cattle Movement Drops

Omaha, Neb. (UPI) — The National Livestock Feeders Association said Friday the continued adverse weather conditions in some areas again this week tended to reduce seasonally moderated marketings of feeder cattle and calves, producing an over-all movement appreciably smaller than the previous week or a year ago.

Missouri River Markets — Choice 800-1,000 lb. steers 25.00-26.50. Majority 25.50-26.50. Choice 600-750 lbs 26.50-28.50. Choice 500-600 lb steers 28.00-30.00, few 31.00. Choice 550-750 lb. heifers 24.00-26.00. Choice 350-500 lb steer calves 29.00-32.00, most sales 31.00 down. Choice 325-500 lb heifer calves 25.00-27.25, few 28.25.

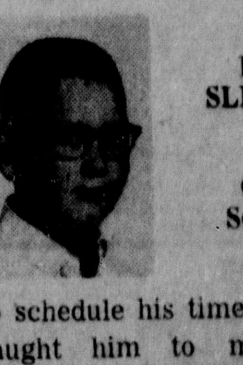
Meet Star Carrier Bob Sleight



BOB SLEIGHT

Good Service

Bob Sleight's service is good enough to satisfy even the most exacting customer, according to his supervisor.

Since he took over the Lincoln Star route at Ulysses six months ago, Bob has achieved a reputation for dependability, courtesy and neatness. And he has also demonstrated his ability as a salesman by increasing his route substantially.

A sixth-grader at Ulysses Elementary School, Bob hopes to study drafting some day and has already begun to save part of his earnings for his college education.

In his spare time, Bob likes to play basketball, build model cars and participate in the Boy Scout program.

His parents feel that having a paper route has helped Bob to schedule his time and has taught him to make independent decisions.

Young men interested in becoming carrier salesmen for The Lincoln Star should contact the State Carrier Dept., The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb. 68501.

State Crime Commission Urges Restoring Rights After Probation

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Governor's Crime Commission Friday recommended legislation that would restore civil rights in felony cases where the offender successfully completes probation.

Under the proposed act, the sentencing judge would restore the probationer's civil rights as though a pardon had been issued.

Another provision would give the court discretion in setting aside convictions in felony cases where the offender retroactively makes application after discharge from probation.

The proposed act would restore voting and jury service rights and would remove other civil disabilities as though a pardon had been issued.

The commission by a 7-6 vote recommended the legislation to the governor's office for introduction.

Committee Named

In other action, the commission appointed a five-member "grant review committee" to consider and approve applications on a regional basis from the 93 Nebraska counties for federal planning money under the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1968.

Commission members appointed were Richard R. Andersen, Omaha police chief; Paul Douglas, Lancaster County attorney; Robert Barnett, the governor's legal counsel; Frank U. Koehler, Scottsbluff city manager, and Penal Complex Director Maurice Sigler.

Application deadline for the $86,500 in allocated federal money is Feb. 3.

The commission also retained Richard E. Mueting, a Norfolk attorney and former legislative assistant to Sen. Roman Hruska, to develop a preliminary blueprint for the revision of Nebraska's criminal code.

Researching and drafting of a criminal code revision is estimated to require 18 to 24 months. Mueting's study would suggest time, manpower and cost estimates for the recodification.

The commission also authorized Warden Sigler to make preliminary inquiry into the cost of an architectural study of the physical and functional deterioration of the Penal Complex's penitentiary and reformatory facilities.

$196,000 Granted For Law Planning

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department has awarded a $196,525 grant to Nebraska for advanced planning of improvements for the state's law enforcement system.

The grant is one of 29 authorized by the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Act that will be officially announced here Monday. The program is being administered by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, a branch of the Justice Department.

Twenty per cent of the amount was awarded to Nebraska earlier for preliminary planning.

Bill Drafters Work Harder

Legislative bill drafters reported Friday afternoon they have been called upon to draw up more bills already than were drafted during the entire 134 legislative days of the regular session two years ago.

With the current session only 14 days old, bill drafting requests Friday reached 1,124.

In 1967, the session total reached 1,118.

—Committee Amends Bill—

District Election Asked For All School Boards

A bill to provide for election of members of the Omaha School Board by district rather than at large was amended Friday to apply to all school districts in the state with high schools.

The amendment was made on a 6-0 vote by the Unicameral's education committee, with two members abstaining. The committee then adjourned without acting on the bill itself in the 25 minute meeting.

The amendment includes all school districts in the bill except for class one districts — rural school districts without a high school.

The bill was introduced in the Legislature by State Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha.

After the committee hearing State Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa, a committee member, said he hoped the committee would report the bill to the floor of the Legislature so it could receive "a full hearing."

"I think we ought to get the moles out of the holes," he said.

Nore said he favors the bill because it "would make the school board a more representative body than it appears to be now."

The committee held a stormy hearing on the bill Wednesday.

Committee Chairman Lester Harsh said the committee will meet again next week to decide the fate of the bill, though he did not set a date.

Public Works

Sen. Terry Carpenter's plan to require photographs on drivers licenses issued to persons under 21 years of age ran into opposition Friday from the Nebraska New Car Dealers Association.

The Scottsbluff lawmaker told the legislature's Public Works Committee that the photo arrangement would help particularly in enforcement of laws against sale of liquor to minors.

Keith Andresen, executive vice president of the Nebraska New Car Dealers Association, said it's not fair to ask motor vehicle drivers to pay the cost of identification cards for liquor business purposes. If identification cards are needed, let them be paid for from liquor revenue, he said.

Carpenter's bill, LB81, would levy a $6 extra charg for the first license issued to youthful driver, $3 per licens thereafter.

The committee held the bi for later disposition after motion to kill it got only thre approving votes.

Salaries And Claims

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meye appeared before the legislature's Salaries and Claim Committee Friday to suppo a proposed salary increas for his own office.

He said it was the first tim he had ever lobbied on salary bill, and was doing s in hopes of upgrading the pa level for the attorneys on hi staff.

Meyer explained tha because he now receive $16,000 a year, he is forced t pay something under th amount to the deputy an assistant attorneys general.

He said he offered $13,000 year to a prospective assi tant who turned it down i favor of a comparable post i Iowa where he receive $17,500.

The Department of Justic is too important to be staffe with "$10,000 a yea lawyers," he said.

At issue was Omaha Se Eugene T. Mahoney's LB78 increasing the salary of th attorney general from $16,00 to $25,000 per year.

Regents OK Bids For Building

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The University of Nebraska board of Regents Friday accepted bids totaling $211,741 for the remodeling of the dairy science building on the East Campus.

Les Lindburg Construction Co. of Lincoln received the general contract for $77,700.

The mechanical contract, totaling $104,241, went to W. R. Lesoing Co. of Lincoln. Briteway Electric Co., also of Lincoln, was awarded the electrical contract for $29,800.

Seats Purchased

In other business the Regents accepted the $27,905 bid of Hoover Brothers of Kansas City, Mo., for 850 fixed theatrical seats in the Kimball Recital Hall under construction.

Property of the Nebraska State Historical Society was purchased by the board for $24,200. The 17,720-sq. ft. site is located on the west side of 17th St. near Vine.

The purchase completes the acquisition of property from the Cather-Pound residence halls north to Vine, the board was told.

Budget Delayed

Discussion and adoption of the budget for the 1969 summer sessions on the Lincoln campuses was deferred until the Feb. 14 board meeting so that Regents would have time to study the proposals.

In personnel action, Dr. Sidney S. Mirvish was appointed associate professor of biochemistry at the Eppley Institute in the Omaha Medical Center. Mirvish has been serving as a research associate at the Weizmann Institute of Science.

Dr. Ulrich Mohr, described by Medical Center President Cecil Wittson as one of the "world's foremost experts" on cancer and allied diseases was appointed senior visiting professor in pathology at the Eppley Institute for one year. Mohr has been professor and assistant director of the German Cancer Research Center since 1964.

MUST SELL before Thursday — Owner is leaving town and this cute 2 bedroom home with air and finished first floor family room will be vacant. Make an offer. Located near the Cathedral.

NEW CARPET everywhere — and just painted. A prime 2 bedroom home with detached garage. Now vacant and ready to move into. Under $11,000. Huntington School is very close.

EXCELLENT large family home—A new full bath and a half has recently been installed along with living and dining room carpet. 4 bedrooms — all good sized. Priced right. Sratoga school district.

DO YOU want to be located in fast growing Belmont? Take a look at this nice 2 bedroom home with full basement and garage and a half. Plenty of eating space in kitchen for entire family.

HAVE YOU longed to live on a Circle Drive? Then now is the time to look at one of the finest. 3 bedrooms, extra large divided kitchen, full basement. Gas grill already on the patio. Within "Driving" range of Holmes golf course and school.

KITCHEN REMODELED and everything newly painted. Basement is finished. Outside is brick. Location — only 1 block from Southeast High School. Priced under $20,000. 3 bedrooms.

SIMPLY FABULOUS describes this 3 bedroom brick. Everything but the double garage is carpeted. An attractive brick planter is the divider between living room and formal dining room which has sliding glass to the patio. Excellent south location — take a look now.

INCOME PROPERTIES — We have 3 which have immediate possession dates and are located North-South — and "in-between". Call any of our qualified sales personel for further information. 24c

Girls State Set For June 7-13

About 370 girls who have completed their junior year in high school will attend the 1969 session of Cornhusker Girls State June 7-13 on the University of Nebraska campus.

Many contributing organizations — civic and women's clubs, patriotic organizations and church groups — give financial assistance in sending qualified girls to Girls State from their communities.

Girls State is sponsored by the Nebraska American Legion Auxiliary.

Talks On Law In Right Hands

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — Asst. Atty. William T. Mason returned to his car to find it had been broken into and a briefcase stolen. In the briefcase were six speeches to be delivered to the Norfolk-Portsmouth Bar Association's "respect for law" program.

"The speeches are in hands where they can obviously do some good," Mason said.

Cable To Be Opened

Cape Town (AP) — A new underseas telephone cable linking South Africa and Portugal will be opened Feb. 18 when Prime Minister John Vorster talks on it here with Portuguese Prime Minister Marcello Caetano in Lisbon.

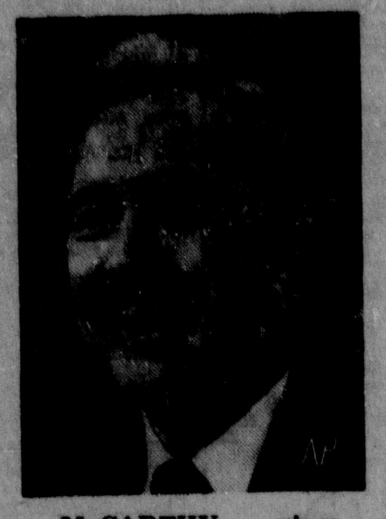
Many McCarthyites 'Appalled'

By E. W. KENWORTHY

Washington — "Tell 'em it was one-third anger, one-third pique, one-third ambition and one-third laziness. And if they ask 'how come four-thirds?' refer 'em to the psychoanalysts of the press."

That, said an aide of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy the other day, was what the Minnesota Democrat suggested he tell those seeking enlightenment on why McCarthy had chosen to surrender his seat on the Foreign Relations Committee, thereby making room for Gale McGee of Wyoming, one of the Senate's hawks.

"Most of his people are pretty appalled," one Midwestern McCarthyite, a practiced politician, said. "They squirmed at his vote for Russell Long (for whip against Edward M. Kennedy). But for his departure from the Foreign Relations Committee they find no adequate explanation."



McCARTHY . . . gives many explanations.

McCarthy has given several explanations for his vote for Long. He has said he had a commitment to Long. But he also said the substitution of Kennedy for Long would provide only "the shadow but not the substance of reform," that the fight over the whip's job was "unimportant," and that "I would have voted against Long, too, if I thought there was some cause or principle involved."

Many McCarthy followers still believed there was an issue involved, namely, whether Kennedy would be a better assistant leader than Long, who had been a poor one.

And remembering what Hubert Humphrey had made of this job, they did not regard the issue as unimportant.

McCarthy gave the following reason for volunteering to leave Foreign Relations:

He strongly supported Chairman J. W. Fulbright's desire to cut the committee from 19 to 15. This could be done by not filling three Democratic vacancies and by filling one Republican vacancy, thus changing the 12 to 7 proportion to 9 and 6. This would have meant that McGee, who lost his place two years ago because of Republican election gains, could not be put back on the committee. McCarthy asserted that the Democratic Steering Committee had "a commitment" to the reassign McGee to the committee.

One of his principal campaign themes, McCarthy said, was that military operatons tended to assume a life and momentum of their own quite apart from deliberate policy decisions, with operations often determining policy, rather than policy determining operations.

This being so, McCarthy said, he had decided to leave Foreign Relations for the Government Operatons Committee where he would have the opportunity to "review how operations affect policy," and "influence operations so that it comes out with a policy I want."
